Gary Rasnick, 19, Elvins, was dead on arrival at the St. Marys hospital in Ironton, as the result of a one-car accident Friday at 2:45 p.m. on route W, three miles north of Pilot Knob in Iron county.

He was driving a 1968 Ford. While rounding a curve, he lost control of his car, which struck a metal culvert, left the highway and overturned.

Two passengers, Martha Sue Williams, 17, Bismarck, and James Michael Hise, 17, Flat River, received cuts and bruises. Both were taken to the Ironton hospital.

The body of Rasnick was taken to Whites Funeral Home in Ironton.

Three East Prairie youths were injured today at 1:05 a.m., on highway 105, at the east edge of East Prairie.

A speeding 1965 Plymouth, driven by Gearl Brown, 22, East Prairie, went out of control on a curve, and went into a ditch, the state partorl reported.

The three injred, were Jerry Conyers, 17, with a broken finger; Ronnie Lee Conyers, 18, a knee injury, and Larry Archie, 18, possible back injury.

All were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

Nancy Jane Thurston, 22, Lilbourn, was injured today at 12:30 a.m. on route D in Lilbourn, when she fell out of the car onto the road.

She was riding with her husband and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for bruises and scratches.

The driver of the truck received cuts on his head, and driver of the Ford received a bump on her forehead. A passenger in the Emmons car, Gertrude Emmons, 65, Poplar Bluff, received cuts on her forehead.

B52s Help Rescue 39 Starving Captives

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers were credited today with breaking up a Viet Cong ambush and helping South Vietnamese troops free 39 manacled, bruised and starving captives.

Military spokesmen said thousands of pounds of bombs dropped by the high-flying jet Stratofortresses in the area so badly frightened the Viet Cong forces that they fled in terror.

They left the 39 men, women and a teen-age boy captive behind. Twenty other prisoners were unaccounted for, spokesmen said, and they presumably were taken along by the fleeing Viet Cong.

Spokesmen said originally the Viet Cong used the captives as bait to draw South Vietnamese troops into the ambush. But later they amended this statement to say it had been only speculation that the captives had been used as bait.

Military spokesmen said there was no firm basis for the speculation that the prisoners were used as a lure.

The later accounts said the Viet Cong had moved the prisoners into a rice paddy only to get them into a secluded area away from the ambush positions.

The government troops freed the emaciated men and women, who had been chained to stakes in the ground, and reported killing six Viet Cong soldiers who had stayed behind as guards when most of the other guerrillas fled.

Three South Vietnamese infantry charged into an open field Friday to free the prisoners in the Mekong Delta, 125 miles southwest of Saigon, spokesmen said.

The captives, held by the Viet Cong for periods ranging from two months to two years, included 13 women, 21 male civilians, three militiamen, a hamlet chief and an assistant hamlet chief.

The captives were quoted as saying that most of the guerrillas fled when thousands of pounds of bombs from the eight-engine bombers fell on the fringes of the ambush site. They told officials they had seen at least seven Viet Cong who were wounded by the air attack.

Sirhan Complains of Sleeping Difficulty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan has been complaining of insomnia as he waits in jail for his trial on a charge of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And he told Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer Friday he would agree to a waiver granting psychiatrists access to his jail record on a condition—that he be given sleeping pills.

"I have constantly been asking for sleeping pills—if they give me sleeping pills, I'll waive it."

No more mention of the pills was made but Sirhan's lawyer, Russell E. Parsons, said later:"I assume the doctor will do his duty and give the man sleeping pills if he needs them."

The defense lawyer said his 24-year-old client "hasn't been resting too well."

Sirhan was in court to enter a plea to the murder charge against him, but Parsons requested and received a two-week delay.

Parsons asked for the postponement, after a month's delay, so psychiatrists can complete reports on Sirhan. He also requested authorization for Xray and electric-wave studies of his client's brain.

Parsons said that in another case he handled, such tests led to the defendant's being found insane and that he went to a state mental institution rather than the death house.

The lawyer previously had indicated he may try to show Sirhan suffered brain damage in falling from a horse in 1966. The young immigrant later demanded and received state disability for the injury.

Sirhan seemed cheerful but nervous during his brief court appearance. Wearing a light blue shirt open at the throat, tight black pants and black loafers, he strode briskly into the courtroom on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice.

Security precautions were heavy. Armor plate covered the courtroom windows and the 100 newsmen and other spectators were searched before entering the room. About 12 armed deputies stood guard during the proceedings.

Sitting at the counsel's table, Sirhan tapped his foot constantly and shot tight-lipped smiles to his brother Adel, 29, a spectator.

Despite his complaint about not sleeping, the defendant looked jaunty. Parsons said Sirhan and his mother pray together during her visits to his cell and that the young man has been reading about another assassinated leader, Mohandas K. Gandhi.

DEW DOES IT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Dew from heaven is not so gentle in Florida. The dew, as much as the sun, is credited with automobile paint destruction.

When General Motors first established a paint-proving ground in Miami in the 1920's, the accepted theory was the ultraviolet rays faded the paints on cars. Then it was discovered that paint panels exposed both day and night faded faster than those exposed only to daytime sunlight.

Dew, which is heavy in Florida, is a vapor - and a vapor is a gas. This penetrates the tiny pores on car finishes and condenses to water.

Expect Quick Summit Windup

HONOLULU (AP) — By all official accounts, President Johnson and South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu have had little difficulty reaching a meeting of minds during their brief Honolulu summit.

Officials from both countries said the two men and their top advisers had done such successful spadework for the conference that there was no need for extended conversations here.

That was one big reason, they said, why today's summit windup could be foreshortened, with cancellation of a scheduled final luncheon meeting and early issuance of a joint communique.

Thieu announced he would tarry a bit in Hawaii to meet with newsmen after Johnson returns to the U.S. mainland.

Thieu, in a formal statement at the opening conference session Friday, said that of course his country hopes for a just and honorable peace at the conference table.

But he gave no indication, at least in that document, that he would favor a complete halt to bombing of North Vietnam. And a member of his party reaffirmed the fixed position of the Saigon government that it would never negotiate with the Viet Cong as a group, though it would listen to the views of any individuals from the other side who cared to air them.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, in advance of the Honolulu talks, indicated a possible bombing halt and direct Saigon-Viet Cong negotiations would be among the topics to be explored by Thieu and Johnson.

If the subjects came up, newsmen were not told of it by briefing officers.

Johnson and Thieu met privately for about an hour Friday morning at the hilltop command post of U.S. military forces in the pacific, then went into larger group sessions and a working lunch that, altogether, took up half the day. In the evening they got together again at Johnson's borrowed seaside residence outside Honolulu.

Aides also held a series of small sessions on specific topics: Military, economic, diplomatic and so forth.

In his opening conference statement, Thieu quoted Johnson as saying it would be unacceptable to agree to "a fake solution and call it peace."

"Past experiences have shown that peace cannot be secured simply through the pledges and signatures of the aggressors," he said. "It has to be accompanied by effective international guarantees, credible to friends and foes alike."

Portageville Air Force Officer Dies

The Air Force said the cause of death was not immediately determined.

Lee's widow, the former Jamie McWilliams, lives with her parents in Poplar Bluff. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Lee of Portageville.

Huong Calls for Direct Talks Between Saigon and Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) - Premier Tran Van Huong appealed today for peace talks between North and South Vietnam "without any go - betweens."

"The Vietnamese people would be proud of such a peace if it is achieved by the Vietnamese people themselves," he said.

"The only way to bring about peace is to have direct talks between North and South Vietnam," Huong said, "and the North must disband all its organizations in the South."

Contract May Bind Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of a group which helped bring the 1968 Democratic National Convention to Chicago said today the convention is bound by contract to remain in Chicago.

James C. Worthy, chairman of the Chicago Nonpartisan Committee, 1968 National Political Conventions introduced that angle into speculation that the convention may be shifted to Miami Beach or some other city.

The speculation has sprung from a strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The strike has prevented installation of telephones and television and teletype equipment in the International Amphitheatre, where the convention is scheduled to open Aug. 26.

Worthy—a well known Republican and civic leader—declined to comment on the possibility of a law suit if and when the Democrats decide to nominate their presidential and vice presidential candidates elsewhere. But he did say "we will not stand idly by and let the convention be moved."

The bipartisan group headed by Worthy put in bids for both the Democratic and Republican conventions. The Republicans chose to go to Miami Beach.

Worthy said the group signed a 40-page contract with the Democratic Convention Committee.

"It's a very carefully drawn contract," Worthy told a reporter. "They just can't pick up and say, 'We're going to take the convention somewhere else.'

"They can't walk away," Worthy said, but he added: "There has been no indication that they intend to do so."

Worthy said the contract was not with the city of Chicago but with the Democratic party and a chartered not-for-profit corporation—his group.

While the contract goes into such jots and tittles as chairs and parking spaces, Worthy said, there is nothing in it about communications.

Czechs Get Call For Showdown

PRAGUE (AP) - Prague radio reported today for the first time the Soviet Union's call to Czechoslovakia's liberal leadership for a showdown meeting next week and informants said this was a clear sign the Prague reformers would attend.

Newspapers in the Czechoslovak capital made no mention of the invitationand the government had not acknowledge it officially until the radio broadcast.

Informed sources said Kiev in the Soviet Union was the most likely spot for the talks.The Soviet invitation to the 11-member Czechoslovak Communist party presidium - a body that may reflect some resistance to the liberal course - suggested Kiev or Lvov as a meeting site Monday or Tuesday.

The Czechoslovak Communist party's central committee endorsed Friday a call for "courage and determination" to overcome all efforts to reverse the nation's liberal course.

The committee met as the Soviet Union invited Czechoslovak leaders to come to Moscow Monday or Tuesday for a showdown meeting on the liberalization drive begun in January by new Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek.

The Prague leaders also were to meet today with foreign Communist party officials, apparently in separate sessions, but the Czechoslovak news agency CTK did not identify the leaders nor say whether the meetings would be in Prague or elsewhere.

One foreign Communist leader known to be in Prague is Waldeck Rochet of France. His party, along with the Communist parties of Romania, Yugoslavia, Italy, Belgium, Britain and Austria, have declared support for Dubcek's regime.

On the other side are hard-liners who fear the liberalization in Czechoslovakia might intensify liberal ferment in their nations. The Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria met at Warsaw last weekend and sent the Czechoslovak leaders a letter demanding reversal of the liberal course.

The central committee approved Dubcek's policies by acclamation. There were 22 absentees from the meeting--apparently Dubcek's opponents.

Dubcek's regime has defended its course by saying a return to the hard-line methods discarded in January would harm communism by discrediting it in the eyes of the people.

"Our people know well that there is no other way for us," Premier Oldrich Cernik said in a television address. "We do not want to become a subject of international bargaining."

Cernik said more than 1,000 letters have poured in from all over the country supporting the Dubcek regime against Soviet pressure.

While Cernik called for calm, Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko cut short a visit to Algeria and returned to Moscow, a move apparently aimed at exerting psychological pressure on the Prague reformers.

Soviet Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovsky, commander of Warsaw Pact forces, flew back to Moscow from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops still are in the process of leaving Czechoslovakia after maneuvers that ended June 30. Czechoslovak officials said earlier that the Soviets had promised the withdrawal would be completed by Sunday.

Contributing to the tension were reports that Czechoslovak security officers had found an arms cache.

Library Has Means of Making Films Come Alive

A variety of sound films are available for showing at club meetings for educational and training purposes through the public library. Many are in color.

The library can now tap the film resources of the Riverside Library System in Jackson, which has on file 200 moving pictures and 1,100 filmstrips, 200 of which are in sound.

A catalog on file at the Sikeston library lists these films.

The Sikeston library has a new 16 millimeter film projector, 35 millimeter film strip projector and a 33 1/3 rpm record player, which can be borrowed by churches and other organized groups.

The only cost of the service is return postage for the film to Jackson.

Those wishing to project film must allow enough time to permit it be mailed from the Jackson library. Because of demand the earlier the request is made the better the chance of obtaining it.

Film must be returned immediately after use. Special advance arrangements are required if the film is not returned within 24 hours.

WONDERFUL THINGS HAPPEN
WHEN YOU LET AMERICANS ALONE

Read some GOOD news, for a change.

Hundreds of jobs created where there were none before . . . a more attractive product for millions of Americans, at one-half the price . . . and not one cent from Government—no aid, no bureaus, no directives—just Americans hard at work making a profit.

It's the tufted textile industry—American free enterprise at its best.

Not so many years ago a Georgia woman made a bedspread in which the design was tufts of the thread. It was new and appealing. Mountain women began to make the spreads, to eke out meager income. Then someone adapted the idea to carpeting, with machines doing the tufting. One-half the cost of the best former variety, this made attractive carpeting available to countless American homes which had never been able to enjoy it before.

The Georgia town, Dalton, where it all started wisely encouarged the new industry, and didn't tax it to death. Impoverished farm families moved to town for the newly-created jobs.

Today this is a billion-and-a-half dollar industry, employing 27,500 people at good wages. It is the privilege of Warner & Swasey to have a modest part in this growth with our Servo Yarn System machines which process the fiber for carpet and upholstery yarns, and make it of more uniform quality than is possible in any other way.

As we said, wonderful things happen to everyone when you let Americans alone.

WELCOME RETIREMENT OF EARL WARREN

Earl Warren has probably been the most controversial Chief Justice of the most controversial Supreme Court in the history of this Republic.

His reported intention to resign may be widely hailed as the best decision he has handed down since he came to the high bench 15 years ago.

He and the far-out contingent of the United States top tribunal, in a series of 5—4 decrees, gutted multiple sections of the Constitution.

It has been said the law of the land is what the Supreme Justices say it is. The court altered that axiom so the Constitution is what this Supreme Court wants it to be.

More than 150 years of court precedent was arbitrarily kicked out the judicial window, time after time. No longer was interpretation of the Constitution fashioned on meaning of the document, but distorted to follow sociological conceits of Justices who obviously considered the clear intent of the nation's charter outdated, or wrong to begin with.

Lawyers and courts over the country could not know from year to year, even from day to day, what the law would mean a year or a day later.

The Supreme Court during the last decade and a half has warped, transformed, jettisoned legal tenets. And the profession of law has been harassed by instability.

Chief Justice Warren has been a reverse legal Moses, leading jurisprudence into a bondage of constitutional irresponsibility.

Mr. Justice Warren, 77 years old, for several years has been rumored desiring to retire. When he does go, he will leave some landmark decisions manifestly commendable.

He was responsible for obtaining unanimity in the court's 1954 decree outlawing segregation in public schools—in this case an interpretation clearly in the spirit of the Constitution. For almost 100 years the rule of law had been for "separate but equal" schools for Negroes. Such schools had indeed been separate. They were not at all equal.

There must have been other good court achievements for which he was responsible, but they don't make for easy recall.

He also headed the Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and turned in a credible report.

He will retire with a record as an extra-legal, bench champion of minorities.

Majorities seemed to get short shrift in his rationale. He thrust the scales of justice often out of balance. His court's rulings handcuffed police in an era of rampant crime and impeded prosecution by ostracizing confessions in trials.

He helped maneuver the "one man, one vote" order, by which big-city political machines and the concentrated urban vote are destined for dominant power in Congress and state capitals.

Apparently Justice Warren plans to leave the bench in time for Lyndon Johnson to appoint a successor—with Warren counsel. Prominently mentioned is Justice Abe Fortas, one of the President's cronies and an eye-to-eye court ally of Mr. Justice Warren. That would be a pot-for-kettle type of replacement and do nothing to improve the badly smudged prestige of this court.

Now that President Johnson has removed himself from the election campaign, it would be far better if he were to let the next President name a Chief Justice. It is likely the new President will have the opportunity to name four or five other Justices, as more retirements are in prospect.

It's time for a return to legal sanity and law—instead of social nostrums—in Supreme Court opinions.

This court has preempted the powers of Congress by sumptuary decisions which amounted to legislation, not judicious interpretation of statues and constitutional issues.

In this disruptive, sometimes unconscionable trend, Earl Warren has been for years the undisputed pathfinder. This probably resulted because he never sat on any kind of judicial bench until he was elevated to Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as a political reward.

Monotonous driving, discourteous driving and drinking driving are responsible for the great majority of our highway tragedies.

There is little you can do about the last two but you can do much about the first: monotony in driving. Driving through 22 of our states recently, I was appalled at the attention given to the thruways: two or three wide lanes separated by a plain median. There was nothing to rest the eyes; just the straight cement road with the white center line. A road sign had, "Monotonous, isn't it?"

And all too frequently there were tire skids on the road. Caused by the thoughtless, discourteous drivers, who pass at 75 or 80 miles an hour, then cut back within 10 to 15 feet.

We urge highway builders to beautify the median with grees, shrubbery, or flowers. These will prove restful for the drivers' eyes, relieve the monotony of miles upon miles of driving at terrific speeds, and perhaps prevent the discourteous cutting back in front too closely.

For safety's sake, the small additonal cost will more than be repaid in lessened traffic accidents.

NADER HONES NEW RAPIER

The United Mine Workers of American is a voice crying in the coal pits against the perils of atomic energy, which apparently it alone perceives.

Nuclear power plants are spewing out highly radioactive wastes around the country and constitute a danger to the health and well-being of the American people, warns union president W. A. Boyle. Besides that, they're uneconomic. They also compete with coal.

The UMW feels so strongly about the matter that in March it expelled "District 50," its affiliated union representing atomic energy plant workers, because of that organization's endorsement of atomic energy.

Comes now on the scene Ralph Nader, the man who has taken on such giants as the auto, meat-packing and gas industries, with another ringing "j'accuse."

The United Mine Workers, along with the whole coal industry and the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Nader has just charged, is guilty of neglecting the health and safety of-you guessed it-coal mine workers.

U.S. REAPS HUGE BENEFITS FROM AID TO UNIVERSITIES

Greece had its creative glory and Rome its organizational grandeur. And what is likely to stand out about 20th-century America when history balances accounts?

Scientific research, in the opinion of one intimately involved in it.

Prof. Hubert Heffner, Stanford University's dean of research writing in the Stanford Review, singles out the organized pursuit of scientific research as our most important imprint on world civilization and assigns the credit to federal funds poured into American universities since World War II.

Frequently voiced criticisms of government involvement in higher education and research -- an allegedly adverse effect on the quality of teaching, distortion of academic emphasis, rich universities growing richer and the poor poorer-he ticks off as "imagined or, at the very least, overinflated ills."

There are some very genuine problems, however, and foremost is our failure so far to define clearly basic research goals.

Defense and conquest of disease are frequently cited justifications for public support.

But more important, Heffner believes, is the benefit accruing to education itself and the quality of American life.

"New knowledge leads to new products, new jobs, and - if wisely employed - increased well-being."

In other words, massive government aid is more than a windfall for the intellectual community. It amounts to highly productive economic, social and cultural pump priming.

There seems to be one unanswered question worldwide and in our own nation from grass roots on up, is why are the common people in such ferment? Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Fortas's admission may cost him liberal support; he'd previously denied role as LBJ adviser; chief justices have long been indepdent of White House.

FORTAS: WHITE HOUSE CONFEREE

On November 19, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that justice Abe Fortas had participated in various conferences in the White House regarding Vietnam and other problems. Pearson and Anderson referred to this in several subsequent columns.

On July 16, 1968, this was the highlight of Justice Fortas's testimony before the senate judiciary committee during the consideration of his appointment as chief justice.

WASHINGTON -- Justice Abe Fottas's admission that he gave advice to President Johnson on high policies of state has strengthened senate opposition to his confirmation. In fact, his testimony that he had summarized the advice of otherr on Vietnam for the President may have lost him support among some liberal senators.

It had long been known in Washington society that the Fortases cancelled out on dinner parties because they were suddenly called to intimate family dinners at the White House.

It was also known that President Johnson had asked Fortas's advice on a great many subjects ranging from whom he should appoint as attorney general and whom he should appoint to the regulatory agencies, to the war in Vietnam. The President himself has been quite frank about this, even when Fortas himself was denying it.

On more than one occasion after he was appointed to the Supreme Court, Fortas remarked bellicosley that it was libel per se to print reports that he had been conferring with President Johnson. Obviously this was a sensitive matter -- though he has now confessed it to the senate judiciary committee.

But the President himself was not so sensitive, and frankly informed many people that Justice Fortas was one of the trusted friends on whom he learned for advice.

NO. 1 HAWK

Now it develops from Fortas's own testimony that he must have been the leading hawk among the war advisers. This had been suspected but never documented.

The President numbered among his advisers secretary of State Rusk, who assumed the role of impartiality; former Secretary of Defense McNamara, a definite dove; Ambassador Averell Harriman, a dove; Walt Rostow, a hawk, under Secretary of State George Ball, a dove; Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, a dove; the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hawks; and Clark Clifford, who since he has become secretary of defense has ben revealed as something of a dove.

If Justic Fortas summarized this conflicting advice for the President, then by his own testimony it would appear that he kept the President on a war course which turned out to be one of the most disastrous in the history of the United States; a course which has undermined the other truly great domestic accomplishments of the President.

OTHER FORTAS ADVICE

Testifying on other matters, Fortas glossed over his persistent recommendation that U.S. Attorney David Bress be made a U.S. District Judge. Bress has been an excellent U.S. attorney and deserves reward. However, the basic point is whether a member of the Supreme Court should recommend judgeships. Under the constitutional separation of the executive from the judiciary, he should not. Yet Fortas recommended Bress as U.S. Attorney in the first place, and then asked that he be promoted to be a judge in the second place.

He was also firm in vetoing such men as New York Attorney Louis Nizer to be Attorney General, though this occurred before Fortas assumed his position on the bench.

No Supreme Court Justice has conferred with the President more than has Fortas, except for Justice Felix Frankfurter, who was a motorious busybody in running back and forth between the court and the White House.

All of this runs counter to the long history of the United States in which the Chief Justice has been completely independent of the White House, somtimes at loggerheads with it.

It began with Chief Justice John Marshall, whom Thomas Jefferson described as "a crafty Chief Justice who sophisticates the law to his mind by the turn of his own reasoning."

Yet it was John Marshall who probably more than any other man used the Supreme Court to keep the early struggling states from becoming a loose - knit federation. Had it not been for John Marshall's tough decisions and his independence of the White House, the United States would not be the powerful country it is today.

The tug - of - war between the court and the White House continued under Abraham Lincoln, who said of the Dred Scott decision that it got the doctrine of Democracy down "as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

On the other hand there was the close and secret liaison between President Buchanan and Justice Catron of Tennessee and Justice Grier of Pennsylvania by which Buchanan knew in advance that the Missouri compromise was to be held invalid.

Among the more recent Chief Justices, Charles Evans Hughes was horrified when President Roosevelt suggested conferences between him and the court.

Perhaps the ideal relationship between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between Earl Warren and Lyndon Johnson, having leaned on Abe for advice for 30 years, continued to lean on him after he went to the Supreme Court. It was a natural relationship and Fortas's advice on domestic matters was brilliant. The question, however, is, first, whether this was a correct relationship; and, second, whether the advice of a man who knew nothing about foreign affairs was not disastrous for the American people.

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE NEW RACISM
By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

WHEN Robert Burns wrote: "A man's a man for a' that," he wrote the ideal of the open society. It is the ideal that a man be judged for what he is, on his ambition and performance, not on extraneous factors over which he has no control.

Racism may be defined as the process of pushing ahead or holding down a man because of his race. We have had a lot of it in America, and we should be properly ashamed. For generations the American Negro had to be twice as good to get half as far.

IN SOUTHERN states under the old apartheid system a white child was born into the best public school system available, was eligible for the best public accommodations he could afford and had the opportunity to enter into any occupation for which he might qualify himself.

The Negro child, on the other hand, was born under low ceilings. His school was usually poor, his public accommodations second rate, and his job opportunities limited to common labor.

The civil rights movement, which captured the imagination of Americans of good will everywhere, was designed to cure this double standard.

But now it looks as though the federal government is in danger of slipping right back into racism--this time with a reverse twist.

ON JULY 5 the Federal Communications Commission issued a decree threatening American broadcasters with the loss of their licenses if they do not practice a system of racial discrimination which has no backing in the public law, but which was dreamed up exclusively by the FCC.

The commission general cousel, Harry Geller, told newsmen that it will no longer be considered sufficient for radio and TV stations to open their employment rolls to qualified Negroes on the same basis as qualified whites. On the contrary, he said the stations must undertake to train Negro applicants and if none appear, they must "seek them out."

This is racism, enforced by the power of government to put a company out of business if it does not comply.

WHAT IT means is that if a station fears it is below some hidden and unannounced FCC formula for proper integration it must pigeonhole the application of the otherwise-qualifiied white aspirant while it goes forth to see if it can find some colored person to take the job.

This ukase is clearly in violation of the federal Civil Rights Act. For employers are now by law forbidden to discriminate in hiring practices solely on the grounds of face. Therefore, the broadcaster who follows the dictates of the FCC could be inviting a suit under the Civil Rights Act from the rejected white job-seeker. It would be interesting to see how the U.S. Supreme Court would decide such a case.

THIS SPRING militant Negro students at Northwestern University demanded and received permission to set up an all-Negro dormitory. There was no reaction from federal officials. But what would have happened if white students at Georgia Tech had tried to set up an all-white dormitory? How long would it have taken Washington to threaten to remove all federal funds from the Georgia school?

The trouble with these double standards is not only that they are philosophically phony. Eventually they will do great violence to the cause of racial understanding.

Bureaucrats in the Federal Communications Commission, who were never elected to anything, cannot go on very long creating new discriminations, even if the announced purpose is to redress old ones. If we really meant what we said about civil rights, no public institution can give one ethnic group the right to practice integration or segreagation as it chooses, while denying that right to another.

SOME TIME soon Americans as a whole are going to have to get the word to Washington that laws governing race relations are going to have to be applied equally. This means that if white citizens must qualify for jobs so must colored citizens. It means that if white people are not "sought out" and recruited for jobs, colored people shouldn't be either.

To give Negroes four strikes at the plate and a home run on an infield fly is to imply an inherent inferiority of performance that will be the death of dignity. And to persist in double standards of apartheid will brind an eventual confrontation between black power and white power that will blow the whole ballgame.

FORGIVERS' ARMY:

Israel's Military Men Salvage Arabs, Lift Them Into Civilized Living.

Gaza, Israeli Occupied Territory: -- This is the dusty, sun - drenched end of the road from the world - forgotten death camps of Cachau and Auschwitz vintage. And there just never will be a road back. You can see that in the Israeli blue Star of David flag fluttering slightly in the dull, oven - heat wind over the Gaza Strip.

You can see it in the bright young soldiers carrying the Israeli brand of Sten gun. That is, you can see it if you find a Jewish soldier. This is the strangest occupying force since Stone Age man heaved his first rock.

There's no vengeance in the hearts of these khaki - uniformed Jewish kids -- the second generation of kin folk who were wiped out by the Nazis.

The Arabs pretty much do as they wish. Here the native children romp around town. They gang up on the visitor with fists full of ball - point pens, perfumes, Egyptian coins, and cold drinks. The Jewish troops never molest them, though the occupying army knows that up north the Syrian guns were deliberately aimed at kibbutzim children's quarters from the Golan Heights.

Here in more than a year there has not been a single rape, a single drunken soldier, a single thieving trooper.

Never have the Arabs had it so free. One vignette will tell the story: Not too long ago the Jewish forces occupying the Jordan West Bank approved the opening of a Yeshiva (a Hebrew school) in legendary Hebron where Abraham and so many of the biblical patriarchs are buried.

So free did the Arab mayor of Hebron feel -- though he was originally appointed, as were 1,000 others, by King Hussein -- that he called a press conference to denounce the Jewish action. No one interfered with him.

In fact, in all of occupied Arab territory, in which now live comfortably, by their standards, about one million Arabs, there are only 205 Jewish military adminstrators. An Arab can say anything except incite to murder, sabotage or terrorism.

Here in Gaza, the Jewish forces, literally figuratively, are healing the wounds of the Arabs. All schools have been reopened and their standards raised.

This is no propaganda effort. All but three of the Arab schoolteachers are back in their classrooms with freedom to teach what they want as best they can at higher wages than before.

Hospital services have been restored. All doctors and nurses are back. Arabs too ill to be handled in Strip clinics and facilities are rushed to modern hospitals deep in Israel itself.

Because Arabs would go hungry if the economy suffers, the Jewish army men are launching a make - work program to create jobs and train the Arabs for them.

Arabs who shot at the Jewish soldiers during the famous "Six Days" that shook the world now are earning their daily bread on roads and water supply projects. Some of these men worked for the terrorist Palestine Army of Liberation.

Others had worked for the United Nations forces once stationed here. (Tangentially, someone should take a look at the gay time the UN observers are having up in the Galilee Jordan border area.) Today this Arab employment, of course, has disappeared.

Furthermore, the Arabs also had sold two million cases of citrus fruits to Egypt and Eastern Europe, and 10,000 tons of dates ot Egypt alone. But the Eastern Communist lands now have cut off trade with Arabs they say they love so much. And, naturally, Cairo has ended the date trade.

So the Jewish occupying forces are helping the Arabs, who have vowed to drive them into the sea and kill off all their women and children, to adjust to life under a benign conqueror.

With considerable ingenuity, Jewish experts have raised the fish catch from 700 tons to 800 tons a year. To salvage the native economy, Jewish marketing and agricultural experts are developing farming since permanent heavy industry and commerce are out of the question. The Jewish forces, for the moment, are here temporarily.

So the authorities of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem did some research. They learned of citrus markets and are helping the Arabs sell their fruits -- to the detriment of the Israelis themselves.

A higher yield castor bean has been developed for the Arab farmers by the Weizmann Institute of Science. Jewish specialists have found a good European market for castor beans. Thus, they are planting 6,000 acres of them.

They are completing a castor bean processing plant at El Arish. They also are developing a strawberry business. And it's all for the Arabs.

Add to this some research on who in Europe will buy vegetables and flour from Arabs in this desert Strip. To this add Israel's skills -- of which the Arabs knew so little. And you get the meaning of inherent fraternity and an inner passion to forgive an ancient enemy.

It is all here for those who want to come and judge for themselves. It takes but a short, hot drive to the second floor headquarters of Israeli Col. Zalman Mart -- "a professional soldier" -- and his civilian counterpart, Nahum Guershome, soon to be Israeli ambassador to Brazzaville.

There is an effort to treat every man -- Arab, Christian or Jew -- with the dignity springing from the soil of an ancient biblical land. Here it takes the form of economic planning so a former enemy, and the women and children, too, shall eat.

No one is denied the rights either, so he has moral as well as physical sustenance. Even terrorists are tried, not shot summarily. There is no death penalty here under the Jewish flag. There was under President Nasser's rule.

Too many men have died already. Who knows this better than the Israelis. So, rather than see blood on the sand, they turn the other cheek.

MRS. BILL V. SHAVER is the former Miss Marilyn Diane Renfro. She and Shaver were married July 12 in Dexter. They live a 118 South St., Sikeston.

IT'S NOT ARSON

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP) — It's no crime in Junction City for a man to burn his own house down if he does not file an insurance claim for the loss, according to County Judge pro tem E.B. Skinner. He dismissed arson charges which had been filed against a man who had been charged with setting fire to the house where he and his wife lived.

"I FOUGHT GOD AND WON"

I fought God and won is the word of a man who began to read the Bible to discover its inconsistencies and who discovered instead the supreme truth "God is love". When he surrendered to this love He began to win with life. His surrender was the best battle he ever lost. The place to start experiencing more meaningful life is at the point of surrender to God.

The POWER of FAITH

By Lloodi Ishmael

Mary Moore, director of social services for the Hospital of the Holy Family, which is a division of the Catholic Medical Center in Brooklyn, has a courageous faith which she shares with others. Mary Moore has been blind since childhood despite eight operations. She made up her mind, nevertheless, to live a normal life and to find a career in service to others. Her first schooling was at the New York City Institute for the Education of the Blind. She received her bachelor degree in social service at Mount St. Vincent College and her masters degree from the Columbia School of Social Work.

Perhaps because of her own handicap, which she chooses to ignore, Mary Moore can listen with sympathy to those who need understanding and counsel and give them courage to face their own difficulties. Not only does she work in the hospital with the doctors and nurses but she goes into the homes to dispense her own brand of sympathetic assistance.

Of her blindness she says, "It is a source of assurance to the patients. It is God's way of getting me in contact with people and through people I know Him."

LEARNING FROM FAMILY SITUATIONS

How your teen-age son can become an executive with a business of his own

(and grow up to be a success)

YOUR HOPES for your boy's success in life can start taking shape today. Right now.

With a business of his own.

A business in which he gains a sense of responsibility and dependability, learns to sell and to get along with people, learns the basics of business and the value of money (like any well-run business, his will show a good profit).

The business we are suggesting is a newspaper route.

Newspaper route management is the best way we know of in which a boy can apply in a practical way the lessons he learns in the classroom. This helps him to be a better student. It also gives him a headstart in the business of life.

A successful man we know told us the other day: "Surprising as it may seem, the elementary training I got as a newspaper carrierboy has helped me more than any other single thing I can name in understanding the conduct of business."

And he added, "This is why if my boy is able to qualify I want him to have a newspaper route."

The people in our circulation department will be pleased to tell you how your son can qualify—and they will help him get a route of his own in your neighborhood. They also will give him a big start toward success in life. Ask today—

Big Red Sets Up Committee

By The Associated Press

The objectives were the same—but the routes entirely different—as the Cleveland Browns and St. Louis Cardinals took steps to check racial incidents on their teams.

"It was a very distasteful thing to do," said Cleveland owner Art Modell Friday after placing two starting veterans on waivers in an effort to block threatening dissension among the Browns.

Guard John Wooten and defensive back Ross Fichtner were put up for grabs in the wake of charges and countercharges from both concerning a July 1 golf tournament at Ashland, Ohio.

Fichtner handled arrangements for the event and Wooten, a Negro, accused him of prejudice because no Negroes were invited to play, as had been the custom in the past.

Fichtner said the size of the tournament had been cut down, and no racial slurs were intended. But he did say those connected with the tournament were unhappy because Negroes invited in the past had not socialized with white players.

The argument drew widespread publicity in the Cleveland newspapers and Modell said the positions of both players finally "became untenable." He said he wasn't trying to "hang either one of them. It's just the circumstances."

The 31-year-old Wooten is a nine-year veteran and Fichtne , 29, had been with the Browns for eight season.

Meanwhile, at Lake Forest, Ill., the St. Louis Cardinals took a different approach to solving racial problems blamed in part for their stuttering finish last season.

They formed a players committee to nip any threat of dissension in the bud.

Coach Charley Winner said the committee wasn't formed entirely because of racial friction, but added: "We are not here for political, social or religious battles and the only way to winning football is through group work. Color, religion and politics have no bearing and, if they do appear, all they do is cause hard feelings and hurt us in our objectives."

After prolonged negotiations, the New York Jets signed their top draft choice—fullback Lee White, who scored 34 touchdowns during three years at Weber State of Utah.

The Jets wouldn't disclose terms of the multi-year contract, but the 6-foot-4, 240-pound White reportedly had been seeking a minimum of $150,000 for three years.

In Green Bay, veteran fullback Jim Grabowski tested his knee during a 30-minute workout and said it "didn't bother me a bit." He injured it against Baltimore last season, reinjured it later against Chicago and underwent surgery in January.

Another casualty of that Baltimore game, halfback Elijah Pitts, also looked good after leg surgery, dashing for one of the day's longest gains on a 15-yard swing pass from Bart Starr.

At Mankato, Minn., some 20 Minnesota Viking veterans made their first appearance at training camp—and immediately launched a negotiation session with General Manager Jim Finks. The vets haven't signed their 1968 contracts yet.

It was a different situation at Boston, where the Patriots announced the signing of six veterans, including standout defensive end Larry Eisenhauer and one of the original members of the AFL team, wide receiver Jim Colclough.

At Miami, Joe Auer, the Dolphins' 1966 player of the year who lost his halfback starting job to a rookie last season, signed for his fifth year in pro ball.

Several teams also did a little more trimming. Baltimore dismissed Gordon Jaffray, free agent from Evansville, Ind., College; the New Orleans Saints sent home six rookies, including their 14th-round draft hoice, Herb Covington of Memphis State, and the Denver Broncos cut linebacker Lou Andrus of Brigham Young and defensive back Tom Cassese of C. W. Post, a pair of second-year men.

Danny Talbott, former North Carolina quarterback who quit a pro baseball career to play pro football, has another career facing him. The Washington Redskins announced he has been called to military service after only a week in training camp.

Danny Villanueva, punter and placekicker for the Dallas Cowboys, announced his retirement after eight pro seasons to devote full time to his job as a sportscaster for a Spanish language radio station in Los Angeles.

ALTHOUGH THEY HAVE SAME-SOUNDING NAMES and are often together at the finish lines on the NASCAR circuit, Cale Yarborough (top) isn't related to Lee Roy Yarbrough. After finishing one-two in the Daytona 500, both returned to the Florida resort town to compete in the Firecracker 400.

Matchick's Blast Shoves Tigers 7.5 Games In Front

By The Associated Press

Tom Matchick was the talk of Florida spring training in 1967, and they were saying plenty of good things about him later in the minor lagues, too, that year. But none of it was repeated in the major leagues—until Friday night.

Now, with one swing of the bat, the rookie shortstop has said it all over again, and the whole town of Detroit is buzzing.

More than 53,000 Detroit fans with pennant fever were on hand when Matchick spoke his piece, a two-out, full-count, two-run homer in the last of the ninth that lifted the American League-leading Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Baltimore.

The blast shoved the Tigers 7½ games ahead of rained-out Cleveland and 8½ in front of the Orioles, who had come to Detroit with hopes of closing in on the Tigers. However, Matchick's hit was a demoralizing start for Baltimore, which meets Detroit in six more games this weekend and next.

Cleveland was rained out of its game at New York against the Yankees while Washington doused Boston 7-3, Oakland silenced Minnesota 4-2 and California blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0.

Detroit had been held to only two hits for the first eight innings and trailed 4-2 as Frank Robinson hit his sixth homer with a man on Paul Blair hit a sacrifice fly and Don Buford a run-scoring six run-scoring single for Baltimore.

But Jim Northrup opened the ninth with a single, Al Kaline walked and two force outs produced a run and set the stage for Matchick.

Cap Peterson slammed a homer and a two-run double and Frank Howard and Mike Epstein sparked a three-run fourth inning with doubles as Washington won only for the second time in 12 games.

Dennis Higgins saved Bruce Howard's first victory, entering wth two on and none out in the seventh with the score 5-3 and blanking the Red Sox the rest of the way. Juan Pizarro, 2-1, took the loss.

Reggie Jackson was Oakland's big bat, cracking a three-run homer, his 16th, in the first inning off loser Jim Merritt, 5-11. John "Blue Moon" Odom went eight innings to raise his record to 8-6.

Roger Repoz slammed his first homer since May 14 and the two-run shot in the sixth inning was enough for George Brunet in California's triumph. Repoz' 10th homer came after Jim Fregosi reached base on an error.

Brunet, 10-9, outdueled Bob Priddy, 1-5.

Two Swings Does It As Mets Stop Birds

By The Associated Press

Two months ago, Larry Jaster kept the New York Mets cooling their heels for 7 2-3 innings before they finally got one foot in the door.

Friday night the Mets looked up the St. Louis swifty again ... and crashed the gate with two quick swings.

Bud Harrelson tagged Jaster's first pitch for a double and Cleon Jones followed with a second-pitch homer, launching the Mets to a 4-2 victory over the National League-leading Cardinals.

It was New York's first crack at Jaster since May 31, when the tall southpaw beat the Mets 2-0 with a two-hitter, retiring 23 batters in order before yielding a two-out single in the eighth.

Despite their second setback in as many nights, the Cards remained nine games up on the second-place Atlanta Braves, who bowed to Pittsburgh 2-0. Houston topped San Francisco 3-1, Chicago downed Los Angeles 6-2 and Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 9-2 in other NL games.

Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4, California blanked Chicago 2-0, Oakland beat Minnesota 4-2 and Washington staggered Boston 73 in American League play. Cleveland and New York were rained out.

Rookie Bob Moose flipped a four-hitter as the Pirates throttled the Braves, who had won nine of their previous 11 starts. Willie Stargell gave Moose, 4-6, the only run he needed by slamming a fourth-inning homer, his 16th of the season.

Don Wilson and rookie Steve Shea stopped the Giants on four hits, with Shea pitching out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth. Lee Thomas knocked in Houston's first run with a second-inning double and the Astros scored twice in the seventh on doubles by Bob Aspromonte and Denis Menke, a ground out and Wilson's infield single.

The Cubs capitalized on three Los Angeles errors for three unearned runs and checked the Dodgers on the four-hit pitching of Ferguson Jenkins, who struck out 12 and checked bases-loaded threats in the seventh and eighth.

The Cubs' Glenn Beckert extended his hitting streak to 24 games with a bunt single in the fifth, matching the season-high streak established earlier by Pittsburgh's Maury Wills.

Vada Pinson's three-run homer and a two-run wallop by Tony Perez paced the Reds' assault against Philadelphia. Pinson connected following Rich Allen's second error of the game to key a four-run eighth-inning burst.

Four damage suits totaling $1.6 million, filed by a Wichita, Kan., family because of a Missouri State Fair racing accident Aug. 28, 1965, in which four spectators were killed, has been settled.

The settlement, on file in Cole County Circuit Court, does not give the amount. It states that the litigation brought by the Frederick Brandt family of Wichita has been "fully compromised and settled."

Brandt sued for $1 million for his injuries, Mrs. Brandt asked $50,000 for the loss of her husband's services. The Brandts together requested $25,000 for the death of a son, Ricky, and $25,000 for loss of services of another son, Charles, who was injured. In a fourth suit, Charles asked $500,000 for his injuries.

Defendants were National Speedways, Inc.; National Speedways of Florida, Inc.; International Motor Contest Association; Jack D. Cecil, owner of the car; William C. Crane, the driver; Dexter Davis, commissioner of the state Department of Agriculture, and the state of Missouri.

The accident occurred when the car, with Crane driving, blew a tire during time trials at the fair in Sedalia, Mo., and flipped over a guard rail fence into a standing crowd. Fourteen spectators also were injured.

Almost 5 million persons have visited the 42 State Parks and Historic Shrines the first six months of this year. Mr. Joseph Jaeger, Jr., Director of State Parks said that through June 30th 4,899,605 visitors were recorded, an increase of 575,062 over the same period in 1967. Jaeger said that if we have normal weather for the remainder of the year the total attendance would exceed 13 million. Our past records show that nearly 60% of the annual visitor count is recorded in th last six months of the year.

The leading parks through June 30th were Table Rock State Park 284,024; Lake Ozqrks 162,420; Roaring River 143,663; Thousand Hills 113,552; and Meramec 100,944.

Overnight camping also continues to increase as in the past, but at a higher percentage than the total visitors. Through June 30th there were 337,767 registered overnight campers, for an increase of 59,637 over last year.

The Lake of the Ozarks State Park was the leading park for campers through June 30th with 27,907. Meramec was second with 22,902. Table Rock was third with 20,971; Roaring River was fourth with 20,674 and Bennett Spring was fifth with 18,600.

Our involvment in Viet Nam has been an unfortunate one, from its inception in 1954 under the leadership of General Eisenhower. Not only have we sacrificed the lives of 25,000 of our nation's finest young men, we are spending at the rate of 2½ billion dollars a month to finance the war. This is the chief root cause of the inflationary spiral, the balance of payments deficit and the 10% income tax surcharge. We must have a prompt and honorable conclusion to the war. Eligible Voters in 1968 and Per Cent Casting Votes for President in 1964

About 118 million civilians of voting age will be residing in the U.S. on Nov. 1, according to estimates by the Bureau of the Census. This represents an increase of about 6 million persons (5%) since the last presidential election. About 63% of the civilian resident population of voting age voted in 1964. About 11.5 million civilians will be old enough to vote for president for the first time this November.

CAMERA Angles

One of the dividends in participating in New York's International Photography Fair earlier this year was the pleasure of meeting Reginald Wickham of Teaneck, N.J. We became acquainted as neighbors, hanging up our photo exhibitions in the same display area.

Even before mine was finished, I felt impelled to take a closer look at the eye-catching, dramatic, poster-like group of pictures that he had assembled. Our acquaintance led to many meetings since then that have been informative and inspirational.

Wickham's pictures are all stark, black-and-white renditions of his original photographs transformed by imaginative darkroom work. Some of them are rustic woodland scenes of trees, barns and fences; others are "people pictures" from dramatic portraits to candid action shots of nightclub musicians; still others are slices of life recorded near home, his job or on family trips.

The common ingredient or end result in all his pictures is extreme contrast: stark white against rich black by the elimination of all intermediate grays. It is an effective, attention-getting technique which lifts normal or routine photography into a creative, offbeat achievement.

Reginald Wickham, 37, has an infectious friendly disposition, a warm smile and a soft voice that reveals the spiritual nature of his Negro heritage. He always had an interest in photography as a youngster and his self-teaching efforts were rewarded when he enlisted in the Air Force after finishing high school. He did so well on the aptitude test that he was assigned as an Air Force photographer without the necessity of attending the special training school.

On return to civilian life, he enrolled in the School of Modern Photography, concentrating on color lab work. He got a job in a custom color lab making dye transfer prints, then switched to the lithography field where he became a color separation specialist. He has been a member of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America for the past 10 years.

Backed by technical skill in his work, he began to explore with his photography. He joined the Teaneck Camera Club in 1965 and won numerous awards because his photo renditions were different in technique and so dramatic in content.

"I didn't invent the technique," he stressed. "I studied a Kodak pamphlet on how to make black-and-white pictures from continuous tone (normal) photographs and began to experiment.

"Essentially, we wind up with a dramatic, extreme-contrast picture. You could start out with an extreme-contrast film in your camera like Kodalith film — a special film not generally available. It automatically reduces the range of tones on your negative to a near minimum. Or you could print your pictures on extreme contrast paper, like Kodalith paper, to limit the image to near black-and-white.

"The subject matter could also be of an extreme contrast nature, like a silhouette shot. Indoors, there are any number of examples when a light outlines a face or figure and leaves everything else in darkness. Theatrical spotlight lighting is excellent for this effect.

"Finally, there is darkroom manipulation of normal negatives. The idea is to transfer the image — by contact printing or enlarging — onto another high-contrast film like Kodalith. This may be done several times, going from a negative to a positive and back to a negative image. Each step eliminates some of the gray tones and produces more extreme black and white.

"I love people," Wickham says, "and I see pictures everywhere." It's a combination that he expresses through photography fully, creatively and artistically. He is a good example of what photography can achieve in small communities, an example of its strength and character as a constructive national hobby.

ARTISTIC EFFECT, like a pen-and-ink drawing, can be achieved from normal negatives by darkroom manipulations. To produce this unique barn picture, Reginald Wickham sandwiched three high contrast films together — a negative, a positive and a special blacks-only version.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who has presided during one of the most active and controversial periods in Supreme Court history, is seen here in photos highlighting his political career from Oakland, Calif., district attorney, through his governorship of California and GOP vice presidential candidacy in 1948, to his historic tenure in the Supreme Court.

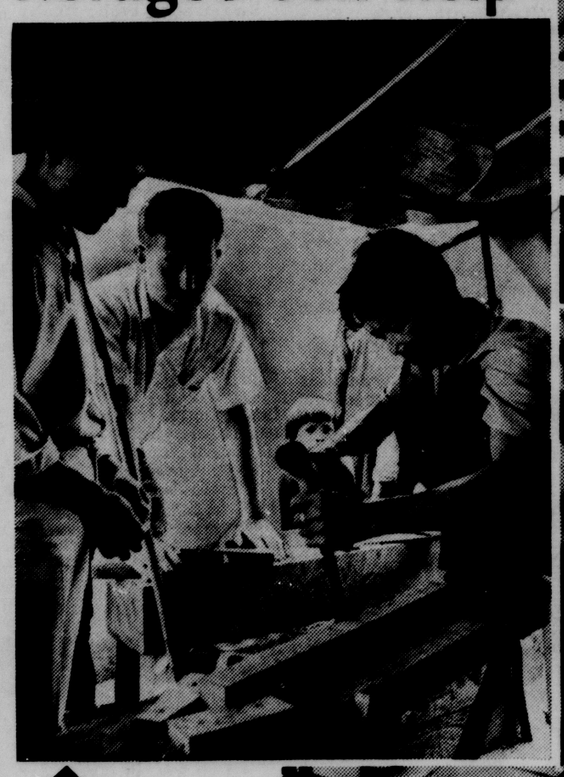
Refugee Self-help



Under contract to the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), the Community Development Foundation (CDF) trains Vietnamese civilians to be mobile refugee-welfare workers. Instructed and graduated in 10-man teams, the trained cadre members have been showing some of the more than 2.5 million Vietnamese refugees how self-help projects can quickly and dramatically improve their social and economic plight. The cadre members' training equips them to assist and motivate refugees to help themselves solve problems and achieve goals in areas including public health, housing construction, education, inexpensively capitalized industries and vocational training. Tennis Courts a New Look

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

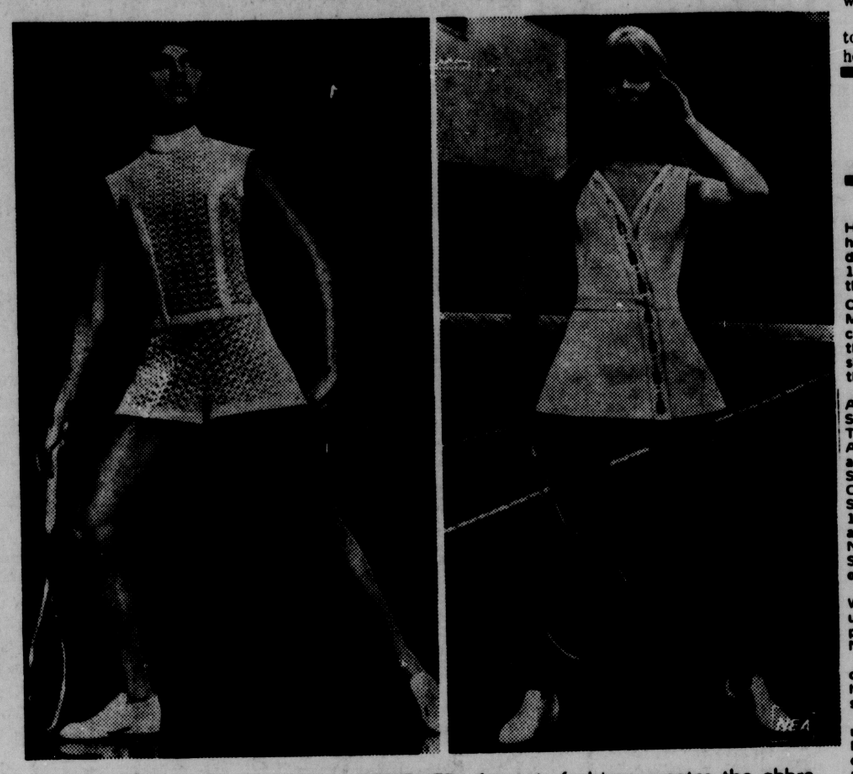
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Streamlined styles are the order of the court this summer. Some tennis buffs may regret the passing of "Gorgeous Gussy" frills, but top tennis fashion designer, Teddy Tinling, believes these are not compatible with the sleek sophistication of the space age.

A sensational wrapover minijacket replaces the traditional tennis dress in his new collection. Evidence of the dress remains only in the longer torso which is attached to a swirling miniskirt or culotte. Another new number is the tennis tunic.

Tinling has discarded the traditional scoop neckline, too. In its place are the polo neck or the low V.

Where flower trims still appear, they are made in Reemay, a spunbonded polyester material which does not fray and is exceptional for its shape retention and easy-care qualities.

Fabrics chosen by Tinling are this time, as always, a highlight of the collection. Dacron from Britain steals into the act—some styles are in 100 per cent Dacron, others a blend with cotton.



A FAMOUS INTERNATIONAL DESIGNER of tennis fashions creates the abbreviated jumpsuit (left) in a white and blue fabric of Orlon bonded to nylon. Wrapover minijacket for tennis (right) is a new and sophisticated look. It is made in a fabric of Dacron and cotton and embroidered with bright blue squared-off tennis rackets. These designs are from a collection by Teddy Tinling.

There is a rich variety of jersey, herringbone twill shirting, silver spot organza, cavalry twill, linen-types and sailcloth.

He has also made computer copies of some of the outstanding designs in the collection totally in Reemay to make the new semidisposable element a practical cost-conscious possibility for the player who prefers a rapid change of style. (Although Reemay isn't paper, it is not a woven fabric and is in the disposable fabric category.)

Rivaling traditional white is a new outer-space blue and silver combination which adds a dramatic highlight to this superb collection of tennis fashions for '68.

BURMA'S PAST, which began before many of today's great nations existed, was one of beauty and wonder including the "Golden City" of Mandalay. Today, 20 years after obtaining independence from the British, Burma is still flailing awkwardly in a sea of economic problems.

OXCARTS, left, move through Mandalay en route to threshing mills. Once Asia's biggest rice exporter, Burma instituted rationing last year. There are no traffic jams on Mandalay's streets.

WATER TAXIS deliver passengers in Rangoon, where boatmen get lots of trade because it sometimes takes five weeks to purchase a tire for a bicycle, a chief means of transportation.

Cash Not Enough, Baby Sitters Require Handout of Food, Too

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who complained about a sitter who helped herself to a third of a pie and ate large holes in the company ham. I agree a sitter has no right to do this but there are two sides to every story. May I speak for the thousands of baby sitters who get so hungry they almost pass out?

I have sat in homes where a cockroach could starve to death. I realize the people I sit for don't owe me a banquet, Ann, but a growing girl who runs after kids for five or six hours needs something to keep her strength up.

A bag of potato chips and a soft drink is not going to bankrupt anybody. If Mrs. Housewife would set something aside for the sitter she wouldn't have to worry about being eaten out of house and home. -- MISS REASONABLE

Dear Miss: Thank you for your suggestion on how Mrs. Housewife can best protect her company ham and guest pie against the famished sitter. I agree a sitter is entitled to a little refreshment, and a thoughtful lady will provide it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was impressed with the answer you gave "Ceiling Zero." I only hope the dumb bunny listens to you. If the kept women in this country knew what their married sweethearts really thought of them there would be a lot less back street action.

Three years ago I suspected my husband had a friend on the side. He denied it for two years and then I ran into him -- checking into a motel one Saturday afternoon. She was outside in the car. I had dropped in to get some ice cream. When they saw me they'd have liked to die. My husband handed her money to take a taxi and then followed me home in his car. We had a frank talk and I told him he could have a divorce if he wanted it.

Did he accept my offer? He did not. He said she was nothing but a plaything and he would never marry her -- that she wasn't fit to shine my shoes much less fill them. We both had a good cry and he begged me to forgive him and let him prove what a good husband he could be. I agreed to try it.

The following morning the woman called and asked me to forgive her. She said my husband had told her I was an invalid and she was shocked to see me walk into that place.

So you see, Ann. liars play it both ways. Please publish this. It could be a post- graduate course in life for your readers. -- HOLDER OF THE DIPLOMA

Dear Holder: Are you listening, students?

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me, Ann. My folks are too old and too square to know anything about love. Besides, all they do is fight. I am 15 but could pass for 19. I can buy beer in any tavern without showing an ID card. My problem is I have fallen in love with a very handsome guy who is an actor. Neil is 23 and I'm sure he'll be a big star some day. He wants me to marry him but we have no money and he isn't working at present. I could go to work and tide us over until Neil gets a good part. Don't tell me I'm a foolish kid because love is for the young and this is the real thing. Give me some encouragement. --JONQUIL

Dear Jonquil: How lucky can a girl get? You're only 15 and you can buy beer any place and now you've found an out-of-work actor who wants to marry you! Two months of boardinghouse beans will shake the rocks out of your head, Kiddo. Tell the guy "Good-bye and good luck."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

Put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. (Ephesians 4:24)

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee for the gift of Thy Son, Jesus Christ, who creates in us a new spirit. We accept His renewing power for our lives. We offer our prayer in the name of the Master, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

J. W. Black House Finished

50 years ago
July 20, 1918

The J. W. Black residence on the corner of North Kingshighway and Tanner streets, which has been under construction for several months, has recently been completed and the family began moving into it Tuesday. Ed McCord of Lilbourn has rented the residence vacated by Mr. Black and belonging to Dr. O. E. Kendall on Gladys street, but he and family will not move into it for about two months. Until then it will be occupied by F. H. Farnsworth and family.

The Scott County draft board yesterday received from Adjutant General McCord of Missouri a telegram stating the August call for men for the army may equal that of the July call. If that limit is reached, it will mean that 266 men from Scott County must go to the colors during August, as that will be the number contributed to the army after today's contingent of 160 leaves Benton, 66 having previously gone this month.

J. H. Hayden, janitor at the Sikeston High School building, has three or four acres of the high school grounds rented and is growing a fine war garden thereon. He turned $20 over to the school board Wednesday, which amount was due the district from the sale of some potatoes which he grew on the school grounds.

Horse Show Serves Two-Fold Purpose

Spectators attending the Semo Shrine sponsored horse show, Saturday night at 8 p.m., will be rewarded by a two - fold purpose, an extravaganza in horse performance as well as aiding almost 4,000 children in receiving surgical and medical care, at the St. Louis Shriners hospital.

The hospital, providing free care for children whose parents cannot afford private care,

A total of 3944 children received care in 1967, J. E. Williams Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the hospital said, with 867 patients admitted during the year. The hospital provided free 642 braces and several thousand shoes and shoe corrections.

There is a waiting list of 159 for the 100 - bed hospital, Williams said.

Patients come from Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Indiana.

The Sikeston organization is one of nine cities in Missouri, which contribute to support of the hospital, and has remained a part of the Moolah Shrine Temple, with the 18-palomino horse mounted patrol.

These animals are owned by members of the Sikeston organization, and perform in many district parades, to keep the identity with the state Shriner organization.

Horse shows are something special, in that many hours of training are given by the riders so that their horses can perform with split - second timing, in whatever class a horse is entered.

In contrast to the riders, who are meticulously attired in a riding habit rigidly prescribed for the type of riding class in which they are entered, the spectator can be at ease in sundresses, shorts and slacks.

Once a spectator shares the performer's dejection or joy he will have joined the ranks of true horse show addicts.

Even in Michigan, the citadel of the automobile, interest in horses and horse shows is growing.

Michigan Horse Show Association lists 38 horse shows in 1968 compared with only 16 in 1957.

400-Car Parking Lot Going Up at College

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 400-car parking lot is being constructed on college property as one of several major steps by Southeast Missouri State College to solve traffic problems when classes begin in September.

The parking lot is being built on the College Farm just north of the main campus. In addition, a lot for parking 250 vehicles will be built adjacent to the Towers dormitories, where two 12-story units are now being completed.

Carroll Walker, dean of students, said that the college this year would rigidly enforce its traffic code.

Use of city streets near the campus for parking will be severely curtailed in the new school year, Dean Walker said. Students residing within six blocks of the campus will be required to walk to classes and students who live farther away will be required to park on college lots.

Approximately 1800 cars are expected on campus this fall and the college will provide about 1200 spaces for them.

Vehicles will be classified in six different ways, officials said. These principally will be determined by credit hours and grade average. Some students will be allowed to park on campus and others will not.

Those who live in dormitories will be allowed to park in the residence hall's parking lot if they meet minimum requirements of 60 hours and a C grade average. Commuting students may bring cars to campus.

Students will be required to register cars and those who do not will be suspended for the semester, Dean Walker said. Two full- time college police officers will be employed to issue tickets to violators in the six - block area around the college.

Bones in Chicken Cafe Owner's Fault

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Rolly-polly Solly loved to eat and was a self-styled expert on food and, while the nicest thing he could say about spinich was that it had no bones, he couldn't say the same thing for a chicken sandwich he ate in Benny's Beanery.

As he chomped away at the sandwich, a bone caught in his throat causing dire consequences. The result? He picked a bone with Benny in court where he sued him for damages.

"I don't know what he's got against me?" Benny queried in court. "It's not my fault that chickens have chicken bones."

"Maybe not when they're pecking around," was Solly's answer, "but, when they're inside an all white meant chicken sandwich, they should be boneless and the sandwich should be harmless. Since it wasn't, I'm entitled to collect for my injuries."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Solly to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that a restauranteur must exercise care to remove such harmful bones as a customer would not ordinarily anticipate or guard against in food served him. Ordinarily, concluded the judge, there are no bones in the white meat of a chicken.

B52s Help Rescue 39 Starving Captives

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers were credited today with breaking up a Viet Cong ambush and helping South Vietnamese troops free 39 manacled, bruised and starving captives.

Military spokesmen said thousands of pounds of bombs dropped by the high-flying jet Stratofortresses in the area so badly frightened the Viet Cong forces that they fled in terror.

They left the 39 men, women and a teen-age boy captive behind. Twenty other prisoners were unaccounted for, spokesmen said, and they presumably were taken along by the fleeing Viet Cong.

Spokesmen said originally the Viet Cong used the captives as bait to draw South Vietnamese troops into the ambush. But later they amended this statement to say it had been only speculation that the captives had been used as bait.

Military spokesmen said there was no firm basis for the speculation that the prisoners were used as a lure.

The later accounts said the Viet Cong had moved the prisoners into a rice paddy only to get them into a secluded area away from the ambush positions.

The government troops freed the emaciated men and women, who had been chained to stakes in the ground, and reported killing six Viet Cong soldiers who had stayed behind as guards when most of the other guerrillas fled.

Three South Vietnamese infantry charged into an open field Friday to free the prisoners in the Mekong Delta, 125 miles southwest of Saigon, spokesmen said.

The captives, held by the Viet Cong for periods ranging from two months to two years, included 13 women, 21 male civilians, three militiamen, a hamlet chief and an assistant hamlet chief.

The captives were quoted as saying that most of the guerrillas fled when thousands of pounds of bombs from the eight-engine bombers fell on the fringes of the ambush site. They told officials they had seen at least seven Viet Cong who were wounded by the air attack.

Sirhan Complains of Sleeping Difficulty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan has been complaining of insomnia as he waits in jail for his trial on a charge of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And he told Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer Friday he would agree to a waiver granting psychiatrists access to his jail record on a condition—that he be given sleeping pills.

"I have constantly been asking for sleeping pills—if they give me sleeping pills, I'll waive it."

No more mention of the pills was made but Sirhan's lawyer, Russell E. Parsons, said later:"I assume the doctor will do his duty and give the man sleeping pills if he needs them."

The defense lawyer said his 24-year-old client "hasn't been resting too well."

Sirhan was in court to enter a plea to the murder charge against him, but Parsons requested and received a two-week delay.

Parsons asked for the postponement, after a month's delay, so psychiatrists can complete reports on Sirhan. He also requested authorization for Xray and electric-wave studies of his client's brain.

Parsons said that in another case he handled, such tests led to the defendant's being found insane and that he went to a state mental institution rather than the death house.

The lawyer previously had indicated he may try to show Sirhan suffered brain damage in falling from a horse in 1966. The young immigrant later demanded and received state disability for the injury.

Sirhan seemed cheerful but nervous during his brief court appearance. Wearing a light blue shirt open at the throat, tight black pants and black loafers, he strode briskly into the courtroom on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice.

Security precautions were heavy. Armor plate covered the courtroom windows and the 100 newsmen and other spectators were searched before entering the room. About 12 armed deputies stood guard during the proceedings.

Sitting at the counsel's table, Sirhan tapped his foot constantly and shot tight-lipped smiles to his brother Adel, 29, a spectator.

Despite his complaint about not sleeping, the defendant looked jaunty. Parsons said Sirhan and his mother pray together during her visits to his cell and that the young man has been reading about another assassinated leader, Mohandas K. Gandhi.

DEW DOES IT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Dew from heaven is not so gentle in Florida. The dew, as much as the sun, is credited with automobile paint destruction.

When General Motors first established a paint-proving ground in Miami in the 1920's, the accepted theory was the ultraviolet rays faded the paints on cars. Then it was discovered that paint panels exposed both day and night faded faster than those exposed only to daytime sunlight.

Dew, which is heavy in Florida, is a vapor - and a vapor is a gas. This penetrates the tiny pores on car finishes and condenses to water.

Expect Quick Summit Windup

HONOLULU (AP) — By all official accounts, President Johnson and South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu have had little difficulty reaching a meeting of minds during their brief Honolulu summit.

Officials from both countries said the two men and their top advisers had done such successful spadework for the conference that there was no need for extended conversations here.

That was one big reason, they said, why today's summit windup could be foreshortened, with cancellation of a scheduled final luncheon meeting and early issuance of a joint communique.

Thieu announced he would tarry a bit in Hawaii to meet with newsmen after Johnson returns to the U.S. mainland.

Thieu, in a formal statement at the opening conference session Friday, said that of course his country hopes for a just and honorable peace at the conference table.

But he gave no indication, at least in that document, that he would favor a complete halt to bombing of North Vietnam. And a member of his party reaffirmed the fixed position of the Saigon government that it would never negotiate with the Viet Cong as a group, though it would listen to the views of any individuals from the other side who cared to air them.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, in advance of the Honolulu talks, indicated a possible bombing halt and direct Saigon-Viet Cong negotiations would be among the topics to be explored by Thieu and Johnson.

If the subjects came up, newsmen were not told of it by briefing officers.

Johnson and Thieu met privately for about an hour Friday morning at the hilltop command post of U.S. military forces in the pacific, then went into larger group sessions and a working lunch that, altogether, took up half the day. In the evening they got together again at Johnson's borrowed seaside residence outside Honolulu.

Aides also held a series of small sessions on specific topics: Military, economic, diplomatic and so forth.

In his opening conference statement, Thieu quoted Johnson as saying it would be unacceptable to agree to "a fake solution and call it peace."

"Past experiences have shown that peace cannot be secured simply through the pledges and signatures of the aggressors," he said. "It has to be accompanied by effective international guarantees, credible to friends and foes alike."

The Air Force said the cause of death was not immediately determined.

Lee's widow, the former Jamie McWilliams, lives with her parents in Poplar Bluff. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Lee of Portageville.

Huong Calls for Direct Talks Between Saigon and Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) - Premier Tran Van Huong appealed today for peace talks between North and South Vietnam "without any go - betweens."

"The Vietnamese people would be proud of such a peace if it is achieved by the Vietnamese people themselves," he said.

"The only way to bring about peace is to have direct talks between North and South Vietnam," Huong said, "and the North must disband all its organizations in the South."

Contract May Bind Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of a group which helped bring the 1968 Democratic National Convention to Chicago said today the convention is bound by contract to remain in Chicago.

James C. Worthy, chairman of the Chicago Nonpartisan Committee, 1968 National Political Conventions introduced that angle into speculation that the convention may be shifted to Miami Beach or some other city.

The speculation has sprung from a strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The strike has prevented installation of telephones and television and teletype equipment in the International Amphitheatre, where the convention is scheduled to open Aug. 26.

Worthy—a well known Republican and civic leader—declined to comment on the possibility of a law suit if and when the Democrats decide to nominate their presidential and vice presidential candidates elsewhere. But he did say "we will not stand idly by and let the convention be moved."

The bipartisan group headed by Worthy put in bids for both the Democratic and Republican conventions. The Republicans chose to go to Miami Beach.

Worthy said the group signed a 40-page contract with the Democratic Convention Committee.

"It's a very carefully drawn contract," Worthy told a reporter. "They just can't pick up and say, 'We're going to take the convention somewhere else.'

"They can't walk away," Worthy said, but he added: "There has been no indication that they intend to do so."

Worthy said the contract was not with the city of Chicago but with the Democratic party and a chartered not-for-profit corporation—his group.

While the contract goes into such jots and tittles as chairs and parking spaces, Worthy said, there is nothing in it about communications.

Czechs Get Call For Showdown

PRAGUE (AP) - Prague radio reported today for the first time the Soviet Union's call to Czechoslovakia's liberal leadership for a showdown meeting next week and informants said this was a clear sign the Prague reformers would attend.

Newspapers in the Czechoslovak capital made no mention of the invitationand the government had not acknowledge it officially until the radio broadcast.

Informed sources said Kiev in the Soviet Union was the most likely spot for the talks.The Soviet invitation to the 11-member Czechoslovak Communist party presidium - a body that may reflect some resistance to the liberal course - suggested Kiev or Lvov as a meeting site Monday or Tuesday.

The Czechoslovak Communist party's central committee endorsed Friday a call for "courage and determination" to overcome all efforts to reverse the nation's liberal course.

The committee met as the Soviet Union invited Czechoslovak leaders to come to Moscow Monday or Tuesday for a showdown meeting on the liberalization drive begun in January by new Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek.

The Prague leaders also were to meet today with foreign Communist party officials, apparently in separate sessions, but the Czechoslovak news agency CTK did not identify the leaders nor say whether the meetings would be in Prague or elsewhere.

One foreign Communist leader known to be in Prague is Waldeck Rochet of France. His party, along with the Communist parties of Romania, Yugoslavia, Italy, Belgium, Britain and Austria, have declared support for Dubcek's regime.

On the other side are hard-liners who fear the liberalization in Czechoslovakia might intensify liberal ferment in their nations. The Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria met at Warsaw last weekend and sent the Czechoslovak leaders a letter demanding reversal of the liberal course.

The central committee approved Dubcek's policies by acclamation. There were 22 absentees from the meeting--apparently Dubcek's opponents.

Dubcek's regime has defended its course by saying a return to the hard-line methods discarded in January would harm communism by discrediting it in the eyes of the people.

"Our people know well that there is no other way for us," Premier Oldrich Cernik said in a television address. "We do not want to become a subject of international bargaining."

Cernik said more than 1,000 letters have poured in from all over the country supporting the Dubcek regime against Soviet pressure.

While Cernik called for calm, Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko cut short a visit to Algeria and returned to Moscow, a move apparently aimed at exerting psychological pressure on the Prague reformers.

Soviet Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovsky, commander of Warsaw Pact forces, flew back to Moscow from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops still are in the process of leaving Czechoslovakia after maneuvers that ended June 30. Czechoslovak officials said earlier that the Soviets had promised the withdrawal would be completed by Sunday.

Contributing to the tension were reports that Czechoslovak security officers had found an arms cache.

Sirhan Complains of Sleeping Difficulty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan has been complaining of insomnia as he waits in jail for his trial on a charge of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And he told Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer Friday he would agree to a waiver granting psychiatrists access to his jail record on a condition—that he be given sleeping pills.

"I have constantly been asking for sleeping pills—if they give me sleeping pills, I'll waive it."

No more mention of the pills was made but Sirhan's lawyer, Russell E. Parsons, said later: "I assume the doctor will do his duty and give the man sleeping pills if he needs them."

The defense lawyer said his 24-year-old client "hasn't been resting too well."

Sirhan was in court to enter a plea to the murder charge against him, but Parsons requested and received a two-week delay.

Parsons asked for the postponement, after a month's delay, so psychiatrists can complete reports on Sirhan. He also requested authorization for Xray and electric-wave studies of his client's brain.

Parsons said that in another case he handled, such tests led to the defendant's being found insane and that he went to a state mental institution rather than the death house.

The lawyer previously had indicated he may try to show Sirhan suffered brain damage in falling from a horse in 1966. The young immigrant later demanded and received state disability for the injury.

Sirhan seemed cheerful but nervous during his brief court appearance. Wearing a light blue shirt open at the throat, tight black pants and black loafers, he strode briskly into the courtroom on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice.

Security precautions were heavy. Armor plate covered the courtroom windows and the 100 newsmen and other spectators were searched before entering the room. About 12 armed deputies stood guard during the proceedings.

Sitting at the counsel's table, Sirhan tapped his foot constantly and shot tight-lipped smiles to his brother Adel, 29, a spectator.

Despite his complaint about not sleeping, the defendant looked jaunty. Parsons said Sirhan and his mother pray together during her visits to his cell and that the young man has been reading about another assassinated leader, Mohandas K. Gandhi.

DEW DOES IT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Dew from heaven is not so gentle in Florida. The dew, as much as the sun, is credited with automobile paint destruction.

When General Motors first established a paint-proving ground in Miami in the 1920's, the accepted theory was the ultraviolet rays faded the paints on cars. Then it was discovered that paint panels exposed both day and night faded faster than those exposed only to daytime sunlight.

Dew, which is heavy in Florida, is a vapor - and a vapor is a gas. This penetrates the tiny pores on car finishes and condenses to water.

Expect Quick Summit Windup

HONOLULU (AP) — By all official accounts, President Johnson and South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu have had little difficulty reaching a meeting of minds during their brief Honolulu summit.

Officials from both countries said the two men and their top advisers had done such successful spadework for the conference that there was no need for extended conversations here.

That was one big reason, they said, why today's summit windup could be foreshortened, with cancellation of a scheduled final luncheon meeting and early issuance of a joint communique.

Thieu announced he would tarry a bit in Hawaii to meet with newsmen after Johnson returns to the U.S. mainland.

Thieu, in a formal statement at the opening conference session Friday, said that of course his country hopes for a just and honorable peace at the conference table.

But he gave no indication, at least in that document, that he would favor a complete halt to bombing of North Vietnam. And a member of his party reaffirmed the fixed position of the Saigon government that it would never negotiate with the Viet Cong as a group, though it would listen to the views of any individuals from the other side who cared to air them.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, in advance of the Honolulu talks, indicated a possible bombing halt and direct Saigon-Viet Cong negotiations would be among the topics to be explored by Thieu and Johnson.

If the subjects came up, newsmen were not told of it by briefing officers.

Johnson and Thieu met privately for about an hour Friday morning at the hilltop command post of U.S. military forces in the pacific, then went into larger group sessions and a working lunch that, altogether, took up half the day. In the evening they got together again at Johnson's borrowed seaside residence outside Honolulu.

Aides also held a series of small sessions on specific topics: Military, economic, diplomatic and so forth.

In his opening conference statement, Thieu quoted Johnson as saying it would be unacceptable to agree to "a fake solution and call it peace."

"Past experiences have shown that peace cannot be secured simply through the pledges and signatures of the aggressors," he said. "It has to be accompanied by effective international guarantees, credible to friends and foes alike."

The Air Force said the cause of death was not immediately determined.

Lee's widow, the former Jamie McWilliams, lives with her parents in Poplar Bluff. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Lee of Portageville.

Huong Calls for Direct Talks Between Saigon and Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) - Premier Tran Van Huong appealed today for peace talks between North and South Vietnam "without any go - betweens."

"The Vietnamese people would be proud of such a peace if it is achieved by the Vietnamese people themselves," he said.

"The only way to bring about peace is to have direct talks between North and South Vietnam," Huong said, "and the North must disband all its organizations in the South."

Contract May Bind Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of a group which helped bring the 1968 Democratic National Convention to Chicago said today the convention is bound by contract to remain in Chicago.

James C. Worthy, chairmar of the Chicago Nonpartisar Committee, 1968 National Political Conventions introduced that angle into speculation that the convention may be shifted to Miami Beach or some other city.

The speculation has sprung from a strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The strike has prevented installation of telephones and television and teletype equipment in the International Amphitheatre, where the convention is scheduled to open Aug. 26.

Worthy—a well known Republican and civic leader—declined to comment on the possibility of a law suit if and when the Democrats decide to nominate their presidential and vice presidential candidates elsewhere. But he did say "we will not stand idly by and let the convention be moved."

The bipartisan group headed by Worthy put in bids for both the Democratic and Republican conventions. The Republicans chose to go to Miami Beach.

Worthy said the group signed a 40-page contract with the Democratic Convention Committee.

"It's a very carefully drawn contract," Worthy told a reporter. "They just can't pick up and say, 'We're going to take the convention somewhere else.'

"They can't walk away," Worthy said, but he added: "There has been no indication that they intend to do so."

Worthy said the contract was not with the city of Chicago but with the Democratic party and a chartered not-for-profit corporation—his group.

While the contract goes into such jots and tittles as chairs and parking spaces, Worthy said, there is nothing in it about communications.

Czechs Get Call For Showdown

PRAGUE (AP) - Prague radio reported today for the first time the Soviet Union's call to Czechoslovakia's liberal leadership for a showdown meeting next week and informants said this was a clear sign the Prague reformers would attend.

Newspapers in the Czechoslovak capital made no mention of the invitationand the government had not acknowledge it officially until the radio broadcast.

Informed sources said Kiev in the Soviet Union was the most likely spot for the talks.The Soviet invitation to the 11-member Czechoslovak Communist party presidium - a body that may reflect some resistance to the liberal course - suggested Kiev or Lvov as a meeting site Monday or Tuesday.

The Czechoslovak Communist party's central committee endorsed Friday a call for "courage and determination" to overcome all efforts to reverse the nation's liberal course.

The committee met as the Soviet Union invited Czechoslovak leaders to come to Moscow Monday or Tuesday for a showdown meeting on the liberalization drive begun in January by new Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek.

The Prague leaders also were to meet today with foreign Communist party officials, apparently in separate sessions, but the Czechoslovak news agency CTK did not identify the leaders nor say whether the meetings would be in Prague or elsewhere.

One foreign Communist leader known to be in Prague is Waldeck Rochet of France. His party, along with the Communist parties of Romania, Yugoslavia, Italy, Belgium, Britain and Austria, have declared support for Dubcek's regime.

On the other side are hard-liners who fear the liberalization in Czechoslovakia might intensify liberal ferment in their nations. The Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria met at Warsaw last weekend and sent the Czechoslovak leaders a letter demanding reversal of the liberal course.

The central committee approved Dubcek's policies by acclamation. There were 22 absentees from the meeting--apparently Dubcek's opponents.

Dubcek's regime has defended its course by saying a return to the hard-line methods discarded in January would harm communism by discrediting it in the eyes of the people.

"Our people know well that there is no other way for us," Premier Oldrich Cernik said in a television address. "We do not want to become a subject of international bargaining."

Cernik said more than 1,000 letters have poured in from all over the country supporting the Dubcek regime against Soviet pressure.

While Cernik called for calm, Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko cut short a visit to Algeria and returned to Moscow, a move apparently aimed at exerting psychological pressure on the Prague reformers.

Soviet Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovsky, commander of Warsaw Pact forces, flew back to Moscow from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops still are in the process of leaving Czechoslovakia after maneuvers that ended June 30. Czechoslovak officials said earlier that the Soviets had promised the withdrawal would be completed by Sunday.

Contributing to the tension were reports that Czechoslovak security officers had found an arms cache.

Library Has Means of Making Films Come Alive

A variety of sound films are available for showing at club meetings for educational and training purposes through the public library. Many are in color.

The library can now tap the film resources of the Riverside Library System in Jackson, which has on file 200 moving pictures and 1,100 filmstrips, 200 of which are in sound.

A catalog on file at the Sikeston library lists these films.

The Sikeston library has a new 16 millimeter film projector, 35 millimeter film strip projector and a 33 1/3 rpm record player, which can be borrowed by churches and other organized groups.

Any organization using the equipment and films must furnish a qualified person to operate the projector.

The only cost of the service is return postage for the film to Jackson.

Those wishing to project film must allow enough time to permit it be mailed from the Jackson library. Because of demand the earlier the request is made the better the chance of obtaining it.

Film must be returned immediately after use. Special advance arrangements are required if the film is not returned within 24 hours.

In addition to the films on file the library may be able to fill specific requests for other films, which can be obtained through other souces. A sample of the films on file in the new service offered Sikeston library patrons:

Isn't it the truth! And nobody says it better than the advertising of Warner and Swasey. Here is their latest message:

WONDERFUL THINGS HAPPEN
WHEN YOU LET AMERICANS ALONE

Read some GOOD news, for a change.

Hundreds of jobs created where there were none before . . . a more attractive product for millions of Americans, at one-half the price . . . and not one cent from Government—no aid, no bureaus, no directives—just Americans hard at work making a profit.

It's the tufted textile industry—American free enterprise at its best.

Not so many years ago a Georgia woman made a bedspread in which the design was tufts of the thread. It was new and appealing. Mountain women began to make the spreads, to eke out meager income. Then someone adapted the idea to carpeting, with machines doing the tufting. One-half the cost of the best former variety, this made attractive carpeting available to countless American homes which had never been able to enjoy it before.

The Georgia town, Dalton, where it all started wisely encouarged the new industry, and didn't tax it to death. Impoverished farm families moved to town for the newly-created jobs.

Today this is a billion-and-a-half dollar industry, employing 27,500 people at good wages. It is the privilege of Warner & Swasey to have a modest part in this growth with our Servo Yarn System machines which process the fiber for carpet and upholstery yarns, and make it of more uniform quality than is possible in any other way.

As we said, wonderful things happen to everyone when you let Americans alone.

WELCOME RETIREMENT OF EARL WARREN

Earl Warren has probably been the most controversial Chief Justice of the most controversial Supreme Court in the history of this Republic.

His reported intention to resign may be widely hailed as the best decision he has handed down since he came to the high bench 15 years ago.

He and the far-out contingent of the United States top tribunal, in a series of 5—4 decrees, gutted multiple sections of the Constitution.

It has been said the law of the land is what the Supreme Justices say it is. The court altered that axiom so the Constitution is what this Supreme Court wants it to be.

More than 150 years of court precedent was arbitrarily kicked out the judicial window, time after time. No longer was interpretation of the Constitution fashioned on meaning of the document, but distorted to follow sociological conceits of Justices who obviously considered the clear intent of the nation's charter outdated, or wrong to begin with.

Lawyers and courts over the country could not know from year to year, even from day to day, what the law would mean a year or a day later.

The Supreme Court during the last decade and a half has warped, transformed, jettisoned legal tenets. And the profession of law has been harassed by instability.

Chief Justice Warren has been a reverse legal Moses, leading jurisprudence into a bondage of constitutional irresponsibility.

Mr. Justice Warren, 77 years old, for several years has been rumored desiring to retire. When he does go, he will leave some landmark decisions manifestly commendable.

He was responsible for obtaining unanimity in the court's 1954 decree outlawing segregation in public schools—in this case an interpretation clearly in the spirit of the Constitution. For almost 100 years the rule of law had been for "separate but equal" schools for Negroes. Such schools had indeed been separate. They were not at all equal.

There must have been other good court achievements for which he was responsible, but they don't make for easy recall.

He also headed the Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and turned in a credible report.

He will retire with a record as an extra-legal, bench champion of minorities.

Majorities seemed to get short shrift in his rationale. He thrust the scales of justice often out of balance. His court's rulings handcuffed police in an era of rampant crime and impeded prosecution by ostracizing confessions in trials.

He helped maneuver the "one man, one vote" order, by which big-city political machines and the concentrated urban vote are destined for dominant power in Congress and state capitals.

Apparently Justice Warren plans to leave the bench in time for Lyndon Johnson to appoint a successor—with Warren counsel. Prominently mentioned is Justice Abe Fortas, one of the President's cronies and an eye-to-eye court ally of Mr. Justice Warren. That would be a pot-for-kettle type of replacement and do nothing to improve the badly smudged prestige of this court.

Now that President Johnson has removed himself from the election campaign, it would be far better if he were to let the next President name a Chief Justice. It is likely the new President will have the opportunity to name four or five other Justices, as more retirements are in prospect.

It's time for a return to legal sanity and law—instead of social nostrums—in Supreme Court opinions.

This court has preempted the powers of Congress by sumptuary decisions which amounted to legislation, not judicious interpretation of statues and constitutional issues.

In this disruptive, sometimes unconscionable trend, Earl Warren has been for years the undisputed pathfinder. This probably resulted because he never sat on any kind of judicial bench until he was elevated to Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as a political reward.

Monotonous driving, discourteous driving and drinking driving are responsible for the great majority of our highway tragedies.

There is little you can do about the last two but you can do much about the first: monotony in driving. Driving through 22 of our states recently, I was appalled at the attention given to the thruways: two or three wide lanes separated by a plain median. There was nothing to rest the eyes; just the straight cement road with the white center line. A road sign had, "Monotonous, isn't it?"

And all too frequently there were tire skids on the road. Caused by the thoughtless, discourteous drivers, who pass at 75 or 80 miles an hour, then cut back within 10 to 15 feet.

We urge highway builders to beautify the median with grees, shrubbery, or flowers. These will prove restful for the drivers' eyes, relieve the monotony of miles upon miles of driving at terrific speeds, and perhaps prevent the discourteous cutting back in front too closely.

For safety's sake, the small additonal cost will more than be repaid in lessened traffic accidents.

NADER HONES NEW RAPIER

The United Mine Workers of American is a voice crying in the coal pits against the perils of atomic energy, which apparently it alone perceives.

Nuclear power plants are spewing out highly radioactive wastes around the country and constitute a danger to the health and well-being of the American people, warns union president W. A. Boyle. Besides that, they're uneconomic. They also compete with coal.

The UMW feels so strongly about the matter that in March it expelled "District 50," its affiliated union representing atomic energy plant workers, because of that organization's endorsement of atomic energy.

Comes now on the scene Ralph Nader, the man who has taken on such giants as the auto, meat-packing and gas industries, with another ringing "j'accuse."

The United Mine Workers, along with the whole coal industry and the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Nader has just charged, is guilty of neglecting the health and safety of-you guessed it-coal mine workers.

U.S. REAPS HUGE BENEFITS FROM AID TO UNIVERSITIES

Greece had its creative glory and Rome its organizational grandeur. And what is likely to stand out about 20th-century America when history balances accounts?

Scientific research, in the opinion of one intimately involved in it.

Prof. Hubert Heffner, Stanford University's dean of research writing in the Stanford Review, singles out the organized pursuit of scientific research as our most important imprint on world civilization and assigns the credit to federal funds poured into American universities since World War II.

Frequently voiced criticisms of government involvement in higher education and research -- an allegedly adverse effect on the quality of teaching, distortion of academic emphasis, rich universities growing richer and the poor poorer-he ticks off as "imagined or, at the very least, overinflated ills."

There are some very genuine problems, however, and foremost is our failure so far to define clearly basic research goals.

Defense and conquest of disease are frequently cited justifications for public support. But more important, Heffner believes, is the benefit accruing to education itself and the quality of American life.

"New knowledge leads to new products, new jobs, and - if wisely employed - increased well-being."

In other words, massive government aid is more than a windfall for the intellectual community. It amounts to highly productive economic, social and cultural pump priming.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Fortas's admission may cost him liberal support; he'd previously denied role as LBJ adviser; chief justices have long been indepdent of White House.

FORTAS: WHITE HOUSE CONFEREE

On November 19, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that justice Abe Fortas had participated in various conferences in the White House regarding Vietnam and other problems. Pearson and Anderson referred to this in several subsequent columns.

On July 16, 1968, this was the highlight of Justice Fortas's testimony before the senate judiciary committee during the consideration of his appointment as chief justice.

WASHINGTON -- Justice Abe Fottas's admission that he gave advice to President Johnson on high policies of state has strengthened senate opposition to his confirmation. In fact, his testimony that he had summarized the advice of others on Vietnam for the President may have lost him support among some liberal senators.

It had long been known in Washington society that the Fortases cancelled out on dinner parties because they were suddenly called to intimate family dinners at the White House.

It was also known that President Johnson had asked Fortas's advice on a great many subjects ranging from whom he should appoint as attorney general and whom he should appoint to the regulatory agencies, to the war in Vietnam. The President himself has been quite frank about this, even when Fortas himself was denying it.

On more than one occasion after he was appointed to the Supreme Court, Fortas remarked bellicosley that it was libel per se to print reports that he had been conferring with President Johnson. Obviously this was a sensitive matter -- though he has now confessed it to the senate judiciary committee.

But the President himself was not so sensitive, and frankly informed many people that Justice Fortas was one of the trusted friends on whom he learned for advice.

NO. 1 HAWK

Now it develops from Fortas's own testimony that he must have been the leading hawk among the war advisers. This had been suspected but never documented.

The President numbered among his advisers secretary of State Rusk, who assumed the role of impartiality; former Secretary of Defense McNamara, a definite dove; Ambassador Averell Harriman, a dove; Walt Rostow, a hawk, under Secretary of State George Ball, a dove; Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, a dove; the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hawks; and Clark Clifford, who since he has become secretary of defense has been revealed as something of a dove.

If Justic Fortas summarized this conflicting advice for the President, then by his own testimony it would appear that he kept the President on a war course which turned out to be one of the most disastrous in the history of the United States; a course which has undermined the other truly great domestic accomplishments of the President.

OTHER FORTAS ADVICE

Testifying on other matters, Fortas glossed over his persistent recommendation that U.S. Attorney David Bress be made a U.S. District Judge. Bress has been an excellent U.S. attorney and deserves reward. However, the basic point is whether a member of the Supreme Court should recommend judgeships. Under the constitutional separation of the executive from the judiciary, he should not. Yet Fortas recommended Bress as U.S. Attorney in the first place, and then asked that he be promoted to be a judge in the second place.

He was also firm in vetoing such men as New York Attorney Louis Nizer to be Attorney General, though this occurred before Fortas assumed his position on the bench.

No Supreme Court Justice has conferred with the President more than has Fortas, except for Justice Felix Frankfurter, who was a motorious busybody in running back and forth between the court and the White House.

All of this runs counter to the long history of the United States in which the Chief Justice has been completely independent of the White House, somtimes at loggerheads with it.

It began with Chief Justice John Marshall, whom Thomas Jefferson described as "a crafty Chief Justice who sophisticates the law to his mind by the turn of his own reasoning."

Yet it was John Marshall who probably more than any other man used the Supreme Court to keep the early struggling states from becoming a loose - knit federation. Had it not been for John Marshall's tough decisions and his independence of the White House, the United States would not be the powerful country it is today.

The tug - of - war between the court and the White House continued under Abraham Lincoln, who said of the Dred Scott decision that it got the doctrine of Democracy down "as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

On the other hand there was the close and secret liaison between President Buchanan and Justice Catron of Tennessee and Justice Grier of Pennsylvania by which Buchanan knew in advance that the Missouri compromise was to be held invalid.

Among the more recent Chief Justices, Charles Evans Hughes was horrified when President Roosevelt suggested conferences between him and the court.

Perhaps the ideal relationship between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between Earl Warren and Lyndon Johnson, having leaned on Abe for advice for 30 years, continued to lean on him after he went to the Supreme Court. It was a natural relationship and Fortas's advice on domestic matters was brilliant. The question, however, is, first, whether this was a correct relationship; and, second, whether the advice of a man who knew nothing about foreign affairs was not disastrous for the American people.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

FORGIVERS' ARMY:

Israel's Military Men Salvage Arabs, Lift Them Into Civilized Living.

Gaza, Israeli Occupied Territory: -- This is the dusty, sun - drenched end of the road from the world - forgotten death camps of Cachau and Auschwitz vintage. And there just never will be a road back. You can see that in the Israeli blue Star of David flag fluttering slightly in the dull, oven - heat wind over the Gaza Strip.

You can see it in the bright young soldiers carrying the Israeli brand of Sten gun. That is, you can see it if you find a Jewish soldier. This is the strangest occupying force since Stone Age man heaved his first rock.

There's no vengeance in the hearts of these khaki - uniformed Jewish kids -- the second generation of kin folk who were wiped out by the Nazis.

The Arabs pretty much do as they wish. Here the native children romp around town. They gang up on the visitor with fists full of ball - point pens, perfumes, Egyptian coins, and cold drinks. The Jewish troops never molest them, though the occupying army knows that up north the Syrian guns were deliberately aimed at kibbutzim children's quarters from the Golan Heights.

Here in more than a year there has not been a single rape, a single drunken soldier, a single thieving trooper.

Never have the Arabs had it so free. One vignette will tell the story: Not too long ago the Jewish forces occupying the Jordan West Bank approved the opening of a Yeshiva (a Hebrew school) in legendary Hebron where Abraham and so many of the biblical patriarchs are buried.

So free did the Arab mayor of Hebron feel -- though he was originally appointed, as were 1,000 others, by King Hussein -- that he called a press conference to denounce the Jewish action. No one interfered with him.

In fact, in all of occupied Arab territory, in which now live comfortably, by their standards, about one million Arabs, there are only 205 Jewish military adminstrators. An Arab can say anything except incite to murder, sabotage or terrorism.

Here in Gaza, the Jewish forces, literally figuratively, are healing the wounds of the Arabs. All schools have been reopened and their standards raised.

This is no propaganda effort. All but three of the Arab schoolteachers are back in their classrooms with freedom to teach what they want as best they can at higher wages than before.

Hospital services have been restored. All doctors and nurses are back. Arabs too ill to be handled in Strip clinics and facilities are rushed to modern hospitals deep in Israel itself.

Because Arabs would go hungry if the economy suffers, the Jewish army men are launching a make - work program to create jobs and train the Arabs for them.

Arabs who shot at the Jewish soldiers during the famous "Six Days" that shook the world now are earning their daily bread on roads and water supply projects. Some of these men worked for the terrorist Palestine Army of Liberation.

Others had worked for the United Nations forces once stationed here. (Tangentially, someone should take a look at the gay time the UN observers are having up in the Galilee Jordan border area.) Today this Arab employment, of course, has disappeared.

Furthermore, the Arabs also had sold two million cases of citrus fruits to Egypt and Eastern Europe, and 10,000 tons of dates ot Egypt alone. But the Eastern Communist lands now have cut off trade with Arabs they say they love so much. And, naturally, Cairo has ended the date trade.

So the Jewish occupying forces are helping the Arabs, who have vowed to drive them into the sea and kill off all their women and children, to adjust to life under a benign conqueror.

With considerable ingenuity, Jewish experts have raised the fish catch from 700 tons to 800 tons a year. To salvage the native economy, Jewish marketing and agricultural experts are developing farming since permanent heavy industry and commerce are out of the question. The Jewish forces, for the moment, are here temporarily.

So the authorities of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem did some research. They learned of citrus markets and are helping the Arabs sell their fruits -- to the detriment of the Israelis themselves.

A higher yield castor bean has been developed for the Arab farmers by the Weizmann Institute of Science. Jewish specialists have found a good European market for castor beans. Thus, they are planting 6,000 acres of them.

They are completing a castor bean processing plant at El Arish. They also are developing a strawberry business. And it's all for the Arabs.

Add to this some research on who in Europe will buy vegetables and flour from Arabs in this desert Strip. To this add Israel's skills -- of which the Arabs knew so little. And you get the meaning of inherent fraternity and an inner passion to forgive an ancient enemy.

It is all here for those who want to come and judge for themselves. It takes but a short, hot drive to the second floor headquarters of Israeli Col. Zalman Mart -- "a professional soldier" -- and his civilian counterpart, Nahum Guershome, soon to be Israeli ambassador to Brazzaville.

There is an effort to treat every man -- Arab, Christian or Jew -- with the dignity springing from the soil of an ancient biblical land. Here it takes the form of economic planning so a former enemy, and the women and children, too, shall eat.

No one is denied the rights either, so he has moral as well as physical sustenance. Even terrorists are tried, not shot summarily. There is no death penalty here under the Jewish flag. There was under President Nasser's rule.

Too many men have died already. Who knows this better than the Israelis. So, rather than see blood on the sand, they turn the other cheek.

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE NEW RACISM

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

WHEN Robert Burns wrote: "A man's a man for a' that," he wrote the ideal of the open society. It is the ideal that a man be judged for what he is, on his ambition and performance, not on extraneous factors over which he has no control.

Racism may be defined as the process of pushing ahead or holding down a man because of his race. We have had a lot of it in America, and we should be properly ashamed. For generations the American Negro had to be twice as good to get half as far.

IN SOUTHERN states under the old apartheid system a white child was born into the best public school system available, was eligible for the best public accommodations he could afford and had the opportunity to enter into any occupation for which he might qualify himself.

The Negro child, on the other hand, was born under low ceilings. His school was usually poor, his public accommodations second rate, and his job opportunities limited to common labor.

The civil rights movement, which captured the imagination of Americans of good will everywhere, was designed to cure this double standard.

But now it looks as though the federal government is in danger of slipping right back into racism--this time with a reverse twist.

ON JULY 5 the Federal Communications Commission issued a decree threatening American broadcasters with the loss of their licenses if they do not practice a system of racial discrimination which has no backing in the public law, but which was dreamed up exclusively by the FCC.

The commission general cousel, Harry Geller, told newsmen that it will no longer be considered sufficient for radio and TV stations to open their employment rolls to qualified Negroes on the same basis as qualified whites. On the contrary, he said the stations must undertake to train Negro applicants and if none appear, they must "seek them out."

This is racism, enforced by the power of government to put a company out of business if it does not comply.

WHAT IT means is that if a station fears it is below some hidden and unannounced FCC formula for proper integration it must pigeonhole the application of the otherwise-qualifiifed white aspirant while it goes forth to see if it can find some colored person to take the job.

This ukase is clearly in violation of the federal Civil Rights Act. For employers are now by law forbidden to discriminate in hiring practices solely on the grounds of face. Therefore, the broadcaster who follows the dictates of the FCC could be inviting a suit under the Civil Rights Act from the rejected white job-seeker. It would be interesting to see how the U.S. Supreme Court would decide such a case.

THIS SPRING militant Negro students at Northwestern University demanded and received permission to set up an all-Negro dormitory. There was no reaction from federal officials. But what would have happened if white students at Georgia Tech had tried to set up an all-white dormitory? How long would it have taken Washington to threaten to remove all federal funds from the Georgia school?

The trouble with these double standards is not only that they are philosophically phony. Eventually they will do great violence to the cause of racial understanding.

Bureaucrats in the Federal Communications Commission, who were never elected to anything, cannot go on very long creating new discriminations, even if the announced purpose is to redress old ones. If we really meant what we said about civil rights, no public institution can give one ethnic group the right to practice integration or segreagation as it chooses, while denying that right to another.

SOME TIME soon Americans as a whole are going to have to get the word to Washington that laws governing race relations are going to have to be applied equally. This means that if white citizens must qualify for jobs so must colored citizens. It means that if white people are not "sought out" and recruited for jobs, colored people shouldn't be either.

To give Negroes four strikes at the plate and a home run on an infield fly is to imply an inherent inferiority of performance that will be the death of dignity. And to persist in double standards of apartheid will brind an eventual confrontation between black power and white power that will blow the whole ballgame.

WONDERFUL THINGS HAPPEN
WHEN YOU LET AMERICANS ALONE

Read some GOOD news, for a change.

Hundreds of jobs created where there were none before . . . a more attractive product for millions of Americans, at one-half the price . . . and not one cent from Government—no aid, no bureaus, no directives—just Americans hard at work making a profit.

It's the tufted textile industry—American free enterprise at its best.

Not so many years ago a Georgia woman made a bedspread in which the design was tufts of the thread. It was new and appealing. Mountain women began to make the spreads, to eke out meager income. Then someone adapted the idea to carpeting, with machines doing the tufting. One-half the cost of the best former variety, this made attractive carpeting available to countless American homes which had never been able to enjoy it before.

The Georgia town, Dalton, where it all started wisely encouarged the new industry, and didn't tax it to death. Impoverished farm families moved to town for the newly-created jobs.

Today this is a billion-and-a-half dollar industry, employing 27,500 people at good wages. It is the privilege of Warner & Swasey to have a modest part in this growth with our Servo Yarn System machines which process the fiber for carpet and upholstery yarns, and make it of more uniform quality than is possible in any other way.

As we said, wonderful things happen to everyone when you let Americans alone.

WELCOME RETIREMENT OF EARL WARREN

Earl Warren has probably been the most controversia Chief Justice of the most controversial Supreme Court in the history of this Republic.

His reported intention to resign may be widely hailed as the best decision he has handed down since he came to the high bench 15 years ago.

He and the far-out contingent of the United States top tribunal, in a series of 5—4 decrees, gutted multiple sections of the Constitution.

It has been said the law of the land is what the Supreme Justices say it is. The court altered that axiom so the Constitution is what this Supreme Court wants it to be.

More than 150 years of court precedent was arbitrarily kicked out the judicial window, time after time. No longer was interpretation of the Constitution fashioned on meaning of the document, but distorted to follow sociological conceits of Justices who obviously considered the clear intent of the nation's charter outdated, or wrong to begin with.

Lawyers and courts over the country could not know from year to year, even from day to day, what the law would mean a year or a day later.

The Supreme Court during the last decade and a half has warped, transformed, jettisoned legal tenets. And the profession of law has been harassed by instability.

Chief Justice Warren has been a reverse legal Moses, leading jurisprudence into a bondage of constitutional irresponsibility.

Mr. Justice Warren, 77 years old, for several years has been rumored desiring to retire. When he does go, he will leave some landmark decisions manifestly commendable.

He was responsible for obtaining unanimity in the court's 1954 decree outlawing segregation in public schools—in this case an interpretation clearly in the spirit of the Constitution. For almost 100 years the rule of law had been for "separate but equal" schools for Negroes. Such schools had indeed been separate. They were not at all equal.

There must have been other good court achievements for which he was responsible, but they don't make for easy recall.

He also headed the Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and turned in a credible report.

He will retire with a record as an extra-legal, bench champion of minorities.

Majorities seemed to get short shrift in his rationale. He thrust the scales of justice often out of balance. His court's rulings handcuffed police in an era of rampant crime and impeded prosecution by ostracizing confessions in trials.

He helped maneuver the "one man, one vote" order, by which big-city political machines and the concentrated urban vote are destined for dominant power in Congress and state capitals.

Apparently Justice Warren plans to leave the bench in time for Lyndon Johnson to appoint a successor—with Warren counsel. Prominently mentioned is Justice Abe Fortas, one of the President's cronies and an eye-to-eye court ally of Mr. Justice Warren. That would be a pot-for-kettle type of replacement and do nothing to improve the badly smudged prestige of this court.

Now that President Johnson has removed himself from the election campaign, it would be far better if he were to let the next President name a Chief Justice. It is likely the new President will have the opportunity to name four or five other Justices, as more retirements are in prospect.

It's time for a return to legal sanity and law—instead of social nostrums—in Supreme Court opinions.

This court has preempted the powers of Congress by sumptuary decisions which amounted to legislation, not judicious interpretation of statues and constitutional issues.

In this disruptive, sometimes unconscionable trend, Earl Warren has been for years the undisputed pathfinder. This probably resulted because he never sat on any kind of judicial bench until he was elevated to Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as a political reward.

Monotonous driving, discourteous driving and drinking driving are responsible for the great majority of our highway tragedies.

There is little you can do about the last two but you can do much about the first: monotony in driving. Driving through 22 of our states recently, I was appalled at the attention given to the thruways: two or three wide lanes separated by a plain median. There was nothing to rest the eyes; just the straight cement road with the white center line. A road sign had, "Monotonous, isn't it?"

And all too frequently there were tire skids on the road. Caused by the thoughtless, discourteous drivers, who pass at 75 or 80 miles an hour, then cut back within 10 to 15 feet.

We urge highway builders to beautify the median with grees, shrubbery, or flowers. These will prove restful for the drivers' eyes, relieve the monotony of miles upon miles of driving at terrific speeds, and perhaps prevent the discourteous cutting back in front too closely.

For safety's sake, the small additonal cost will more than be repaid in lessened traffic accidents.

NADER HONES NEW RAPIER

The United Mine Workers of American is a voice crying in the coal pits against the perils of atomic energy, which apparently it alone perceives.

Nuclear power plants are spewing out highly radioactive wastes around the country and constitute a danger to the health and well-being of the American people, warns union president W. A. Boyle. Besides that, they're uneconomic. They also compete with coal.

The UMW feels so strongly about the matter that in March it expelled "District 50," its affiliated union representing atomic energy plant workers, because of that organization's endorsement of atomic energy.

Comes now on the scene Ralph Nader, the man who has taken on such giants as the auto, meat-packing and gas industries, with another ringing "j'accuse."

The United Mine Workers, along with the whole coal industry and the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Nader has just charged, is guilty of neglecting the health and safety of-you guessed it-coal mine workers.

U.S. REAPS HUGE BENEFITS FROM AID TO UNIVERSITIES

Greece had its creative glory and Rome its organizational grandeur. And what is likely to stand out about 20th-century America when history balances accounts?

Scientific research, in the opinion of one intimately involved in it.

Prof. Hubert Heffner, Stanford University's dean of research writing in the Stanford Review, singles out the organized pursuit of scientific research as our most important imprint on world civilization and assigns the credit to federal funds poured into American universities since World War II.

Frequently voiced criticisms of government involvement in higher education and research -- an allegedly adverse effect on the quality of teaching, distortion of academic emphasis, rich universities growing richer and the poor poorer-he ticks off as "imagined or, at the very least, overinflated ills."

There are some very genuine problems, however, and foremost is our failure so far to define clearly basic research goals.

Defense and conquest of disease are frequently cited justifications for public support. But more important, Heffner believes, is the benefit accruing to education itself and the quality of American life.

"New knowledge leads to new products, new jobs, and - if wisely employed - increased well-being."

In other words, massive government aid is more than a windfall for the intellectual community. It amounts to highly productive economic, social and cultural pump priming.

FORTAS: WHITE HOUSE CONFEREE

On November 19, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that justice Abe Fortas had participated in various conferences in the White House regarding Vietnam and other problems. Pearson and Anderson referred to this in several subsequent columns.

On July 16, 1968, this was the highlight of Justice Fortas's testimony before the senate judiciary committee during the consideration of his appointment as chief justice.

WASHINGTON -- Justice Abe Fottas's admission that he gave advice to President Johnson on high policies of state has strengthened senate opposition to his confirmation. In fact, his testimony that he had summarized the advice of others on Vietnam for the President may have lost him support among some liberal senators.

It had long been known in Washington society that the Fortases cancelled out on dinner parties because they were suddenly called to intimate family dinners at the White House.

It was also known that President Johnson had asked Fortas's advice on a great many subjects ranging from whom he should appoint as attorney general and whom he should appoint to the regulatory agencies, to the war in Vietnam. The President himself has been quite frank about this, even when Fortas himself was denying it.

On more than one occasion after he was appointed to the Supreme Court, Fortas remarked bellicosley that it was libel per se to print reports that he had been conferring with President Johnson. Obviously this was a sensitive matter -- though he has now confessed it to the senate judiciary committee.

But the President himself was not so sensitive, and frankly informed many people that Justice Fortas was one of the trusted friends on whom he learned for advice.

NO. 1 HAWK

Now it develops from Fortas's own testimony that he must have been the leading hawk among the war advisers. This had been suspected but never documented.

The President numbered among his advisers secretary of State Rusk, who assumed the role of impartiality; former Secretary of Defense McNamara, a definite dove; Ambassador Averell Harriman, a dove; Walt Rostow, a hawk, under Secretary of State George Ball, a dove; Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, a dove; the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hawks; and Clark Clifford, who since he has become secretary of defense has ben revealed as something of a dove.

If Justic Fortas summarized this conflicting advice for the President, then by his own testimony it would appear that he kept the President on a war course which turned out to be one of the most disastrous in the history of the United States; a course which has undermined the other truly great domestic accomplishments of the President.

OTHER FORTAS ADVICE

Testifying on other matters, Fortas glossed over his persistent recommendation that U.S. Attorney David Bress be made a U.S. District Judge. Bress has been an excellent U.S. attorney and deserves reward. However, the basic point is whether a member of the Supreme Court should recommend judgeships. Under the constitutional separation of the executive from the judiciary, he should not. Yet Fortas recommended Bress as U.S. Attorney in the first place, and then asked that he be promoted to be a judge in the second place.

He was also firm in vetoing such men as New York Attorney Louis Nizer to be Attorney General, though this occurred before Fortas assumed his position on the bench.

No Supreme Court Justice has conferred with the President more than has Fortas, except for Justice Felix Frankfurter, who was a motorious busybody in running back and forth between the court and the White House.

All of this runs counter to the long history of the United States in which the Chief Justice has been completely independent of the White House, somtimes at loggerheads with it.

It began with Chief Justice John Marshall, whom Thomas Jefferson described as "a crafty Chief Justice who sophisticates the law to his mind by the turn of his own reasoning."

Yet it was John Marshall who probably more than any other man used the Supreme Court to keep the early struggling states from becoming a loose - knit federation. Had it not been for John Marshall's tough decisions and his independence of the White House, the United States would not be the powerful country it is today.

The tug - of - war between the court and the White House continued under Abraham Lincoln, who said of the Dred Scott decision that it got the doctrine of Democracy down "as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

On the other hand there was the close and secret liaison between President Buchanan and Justice Catron of Tennessee and Justice Grier of Pennsylvania by which Buchanan knew in advance that the Missouri compromise was to be held invalid.

Among the more recent Chief Justices, Charles Evans Hughes was horrified when President Roosevelt suggested conferences between him and the court.

Perhaps the ideal relationship between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between Earl Warren and Lyndon Johnson, having leaned on Abe for advice for 30 years, continued to lean on him after he went to the Supreme Court. It was a natural relationship and Fortas's advice on domestic matters was brilliant. The question, however, is, first, whether this was a correct relationship; and, second, whether the advice of a man who knew nothing about foreign affairs was not disastrous for the American people.

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE NEW RACISM
By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

WHEN Robert Burns wrote: "A man's a man for a' that," he wrote the ideal of the open society. It is the ideal that a man be judged for what he is, on his ambition and performance, not on extraneous factors over which he has no control.

Racism may be defined as the process of pushing ahead or holding down a man because of his race. We have had a lot of it in America, and we should be properly ashamed. For generations the American Negro had to be twice as good to get half as far.

IN SOUTHERN states under the old apartheid system a white child was born into the best public school system available, was eligible for the best public accommodations he could afford and had the opportunity to enter into any occupation for which he might qualify himself.

The Negro child, on the other hand, was born under low ceilings. His school was usually poor, his public accommodations second rate, and his job opportunities limited to common labor.

The civil rights movement, which captured the imagination of Americans of good will everywhere, was designed to cure this double standard.

But now it looks as though the federal government is in danger of slipping right back into racism--this time with a reverse twist.

ON JULY 5 the Federal Communications Commission issued a decree threatening American broadcasters with the loss of their licenses if they do not practice a system of racial discrimination which has no backing in the public law, but which was dreamed up exclusively by the FCC.

The commission general cousel, Harry Geller, told newsmen that it will no longer be considered sufficient for radio and TV stations to open their employment rolls to qualified Negroes on the same basis as qualified whites. On the contrary, he said the stations must undertake to train Negro applicants and if none appear, they must "seek them out."

This is racism, enforced by the power of government to put a company out of business if it does not comply.

WHAT IT means is that if a station fears it is below some hidden and unannounced FCC formula for proper integration it must pigeonhole the application of the otherwise-qualifiifed white aspirant while it goes forth to see if it can find some colored person to take the job.

This ukase is clearly in violation of the federal Civil Rights Act. For employers are now by law forbidden to discriminate in hiring practices solely on the grounds of face. Therefore, the broadcaster who follows the dictates of the FCC could be inviting a suit under the Civil Rights Act from the rejected white job-seeker. It would be interesting to see how the U.S. Supreme Court would decide such a case.

THIS SPRING militant Negro students at Northwestern University demanded and received permission to set up an all-Negro dormitory. There was no reaction from federal officials. But what would have happened if white students at Georgia Tech had tried to set up an all-white dormitory? How long would it have taken Washington to threaten to remove all federal funds from the Georgia school?

The trouble with these double standards is not only that they are philosophically phony. Eventually they will do great violence to the cause of racial understanding.

Bureaucrats in the Federal Communications Commission, who were never elected to anything, cannot go on very long creating new discriminations, even if the announced purpose is to redress old ones. If we really meant what we said about civil rights, no public institution can give one ethnic group the right to practice integration or segreagation as it chooses, while denying that right to another.

SOME TIME soon Americans as a whole are going to have to get the word to Washington that laws governing race relations are going to have to be applied equally. This means that if white citizens must qualify for jobs so must colored citizens. It means that if white people are not "sought out" and recruited for jobs, colored people shouldn't be either.

To give Negroes four strikes at the plate and a home run on an infield fly is to imply an inherent inferiority of performance that will be the death of dignity. And to persist in double standards of apartheid will brind an eventual confrontation between black power and white power that will blow the whole ballgame.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

FORGIVERS' ARMY:

Israel's Military Men Salvage Arabs, Lift Them Into Civilized Living.

Gaza, Israeli Occupied Territory: -- This is the dusty, sun - drenched end of the road from the world - forgotten death camps of Cachau and Auschwitz vintage. And there just never will be a road back. You can see that in the Israeli blue Star of David flag fluttering slightly in the dull, oven - heat wind over the Gaza Strip.

You can see it in the bright young soldiers carrying the Israeli brand of Sten gun. That is, you can see it if you find a Jewish soldier. This is the strangest occupying force since Stone Age man heaved his first rock.

There's no vengeance in the hearts of these khaki - uniformed Jewish kids -- the second generation of kin folk who were wiped out by the Nazis.

The Arabs pretty much do as they wish. Here the native children romp around town. They gang up on the visitor with fists full of ball - point pens, perfumes, Egyptian coins, and cold drinks. The Jewish troops never molest them, though the occupying army knows that up north the Syrian guns were deliberately aimed at kibbutzim children's quarters from the Golan Heights.

Here in more than a year there has not been a single rape, a single drunken soldier, a single thieving trooper.

Never have the Arabs had it so free. One vignette will tell the story: Not too long ago the Jewish forces occupying the Jordan West Bank approved the opening of a Yeshiva (a Hebrew school) in legendary Hebron where Abraham and so many of the biblical patriarchs are buried.

So free did the Arab mayor of Hebron feel -- though he was originally appointed, as were 1,000 others, by King Hussein -- that he called a press conference to denounce the Jewish action. No one interfered with him.

In fact, in all of occupied Arab territory, in which now live comfortably, by their standards, about one million Arabs, there are only 205 Jewish military adminstrators. An Arab can say anything except incite to murder, sabotage or terrorism.

Here in Gaza, the Jewish forces, literally figuratively, are healing the wounds of the Arabs. All schools have been reopened and their standards raised.

This is no propaganda effort. All but three of the Arab schoolteachers are back in their classrooms with freedom to teach what they want as best they can at higher wages than before.

Hospital services have been restored. All doctors and nurses are back. Arabs too ill to be handled in Strip clinics and facilities are rushed to modern hospitals deep in Israel itself.

Because Arabs would go hungry if the economy suffers, the Jewish army men are launching a make - work program to create jobs and train the Arabs for them.

Arabs who shot at the Jewish soldiers during the famous "Six Days" that shook the world now are earning their daily bread on roads and water supply projects. Some of these men worked for the terrorist Palestine Army of Liberation.

Others had worked for the United Nations forces once stationed here. (Tangentially, someone should take a look at the gay time the UN observers are having up in the Galilee Jordan border area.) Today this Arab employment, of course, has disappeared.

Furthermore, the Arabs also had sold two million cases of citrus fruits to Egypt and Eastern Europe, and 10,000 tons of dates ot Egypt alone. But the Eastern Communist lands now have cut off trade with Arabs they say they love so much. And, naturally, Cairo has ended the date trade.

So the Jewish occupying forces are helping the Arabs, who have vowed to drive them into the sea and kill off all their women and children, to adjust to life under a benign conqueror.

With considerable ingenuity, Jewish experts have raised the fish catch from 700 tons to 800 tons a year. To salvage the native economy, Jewish marketing and agricultural experts are developing farming since permanent heavy industry and commerce are out of the question. The Jewish forces, for the moment, are here temporarily.

So the authorities of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem did some research. They learned of citrus markets and are helping the Arabs sell their fruits -- to the detriment of the Israelis themselves.

A higher yield castor bean has been developed for the Arab farmers by the Weizmann Institute of Science. Jewish specialists have found a good European market for castor beans. Thus, they are planting 6,000 acres of them.

They are completing a castor bean processing plant at El Arish. They also are developing a strawberry business. And it's all for the Arabs.

Add to this some research on who in Europe will buy vegetables and flour from Arabs in this desert Strip. To this add Israel's skills -- of which the Arabs knew so little. And you get the meaning of inherent fraternity and an inner passion to forgive an ancient enemy.

It is all here for those who want to come and judge for themselves. It takes but a short, hot drive to the second floor headquarters of Israeli Col. Zalman Mart -- "a professional soldier" -- and his civilian counterpart, Nahum Guershome, soon to be Israeli ambassador to Brazzaville.

There is an effort to treat every man -- Arab, Christian or Jew -- with the dignity springing from the soil of an ancient biblical land. Here it takes the form of economic planning so a former enemy, and the women and children, too, shall eat.

No one is denied the rights either, so he has moral as well as physical sustenance. Even terrorists are tried, not shot summarily. There is no death penalty here under the Jewish flag. There was under President Nasser's rule.

Too many men have died already. Who knows this better than the Israelis. So, rather than see blood on the sand, they turn the other cheek.

MRS. BILL V. SHAVER is the former Miss Marilyn Diane Renfro. She and Shaver were married July 12 in Dexter. They live a 118 South St., Sikeston.

The POWER of FAITH

By Woodi Ishmael

Mary Moore, director of social services for the Hospital of the Holy Family, which is a division of the Catholic Medical Center in Brooklyn, has a courageous faith which she shares with others. Mary Moore has been blind since childhood despite eight operations. She made up her mind, nevertheless, to live a normal life and to find a career in service to others. Her first schooling was at the New York City Institute for the Education of the Blind. She received her bachelor degree in social service at Mount St. Vincent College and her masters degree from the Columbia School of Social Work.

Perhaps because of her own handicap, which she chooses to ignore, Mary Moore can listen with sympathy to those who need understanding and counsel and give them courage to face their own difficulties. Not only does she work in the hospital with the doctors and nurses but she goes into the homes to dispense her own brand of sympathetic assistance.

Of her blindness she says, "It is a source of assurance to the patients. It is God's way of getting me in contact with people and through people I know Him."

LEARNING FROM FAMILY SITUATIONS

How your teen-age son can become an executive with a business of his own

(and grow up to be a success)

YOUR HOPES for your boy's success in life can start taking shape today. Right now.

With a business of his own.

A business in which he gains a sense of responsibility and dependability, learns to sell and to get along with people, learns the basics of business and the value of money (like any well-run business, his will show a good profit).

The business we are suggesting is a newspaper route.

Newspaper route management is the best way we know of in which a boy can apply in a practical way the lessons he learns in the classroom. This helps him to be a better student. It also gives him a headstart in the business of life.

A successful man we know told us the other day: "Surprising as it may seem, the elementary training I got as a newspaper carrierboy has helped me more than any other single thing I can name in understanding the conduct of business."

And he added, "This is why if my boy is able to qualify I want him to have a newspaper route."

The people in our circulation department will be pleased to tell you how your son can qualify—and they will help him get a route of his own in your neighborhood. They also will give him a big start toward success in life. Ask today—

The POWER of FAITH

By Goodi Ishmael

Mary Moore, director of social services for the Hospital of the Holy Family, which is a division of the Catholic Medical Center in Brooklyn, has a courageous faith which she shares with others. Mary Moore has been blind since childhood despite eight operations. She made up her mind, nevertheless, to live a normal life and to find a career in service to others. Her first schooling was at the New York City Institute for the Education of the Blind. She received her bachelor degree in social service at Mount St. Vincent College and her masters degree from the Columbia School of Social Work.

Perhaps because of her own handicap, which she chooses to ignore, Mary Moore can listen with sympathy to those who need understanding and counsel and give them courage to face their own difficulties. Not only does she work in the hospital with the doctors and nurses but she goes into the homes to dispense her own brand of sympathetic assistance.

Of her blindness she says, "It is a source of assurance to the patients. It is God's way of getting me in contact with people and through people I know Him."

LEARNING FROM FAMILY SITUATIONS

How your teen-age son can become an executive with a business of his own

(and grow up to be a success)

YOUR HOPES for your boy's success in life can start taking shape today. Right now.

With a business of his own.

A business in which he gains a sense of responsibility and dependability, learns to sell and to get along with people, learns the basics of business and the value of money (like any well-run business, his will show a good profit).

The business we are suggesting is a newspaper route.

Newspaper route management is the best way we know of in which a boy can apply in a practical way the lessons he learns in the classroom. This helps him to be a better student. It also gives him a headstart in the business of life.

A successful man we know told us the other day: "Surprising as it may seem, the elementary training I got as a newspaper carrierboy has helped me more than any other single thing I can name in understanding the conduct of business."

And he added, "This is why if my boy is able to qualify I want him to have a newspaper route."

The people in our circulation department will be pleased to tell you how your son can qualify—and they will help him get a route of his own in your neighborhood. They also will give him a big start toward success in life. Ask today—

Big Red Sets Up Committee

By The Associated Press

The objectives were the same—but the routes entirely different—as the Cleveland Browns and St. Louis Cardinals took steps to check racial incidents on their teams.

"It was a very distasteful thing to do," said Cleveland owner Art Modell Friday after placing two starting veterans on waivers in an effort to block threatening dissension among the Browns.

Guard John Wooten and defensive back Ross Fichtner were put up for grabs in the wake of charges and countercharges from both concerning a July 1 golf tournament at Ashland, Ohio.

Fichtner handled arrangements for the event and Wooten, a Negro, accused him of prejudice because no Negroes were invited to play, as had been the custom in the past.

Fichtner said the size of the tournament had been cut down, and no racial slurs were intended. But he did say those connected with the tournament were unhappy because Negroes invited in the past had not socialized with white players.

The argument drew widespread publicity in the Cleveland newspapers and Modell said the positions of both players finally "became untenable." He said he wasn't trying to "hang either one of them. It's just the circumstances."

The 31-year-old,Wooten is a nine-year veteran and Fichtne , 29, had been with the Browns for eight season.

Meanwhile, at Lake Forest, Ill., the St. Louis Cardinals took a different approach to solving racial problems blamed in part for their stuttering finish last season.

They formed a players committee to nip any threat of dissension in the bud.

Coach Charley Winner said the committee wasn't formed entirely because of racial friction, but added: "We are not here for political, social or religious battles and the only way to winning football is through group work. Color, religion and politics have no bearing and, if they do appear, all they do is cause hard feelings and hurt us in our objectives."

After prolonged negotiations, the New York Jets signed their top draft choice—fullback Lee White, who scored 34 touchdowns during three years at Weber State of Utah.

The Jets wouldn't disclose terms of the multi-year contract, but the 6-foot-4, 240-pound White reportedly had been seeking a minimum of $150,000 for three years.

In Green Bay, veteran fullback Jim Grabowski tested his knee during a 30-minute workout and said it "didn't bother me a bit." He injured it against Baltimore last season, reinjured it later against Chicago and underwent surgery in January.

Another casualty of that Baltimore game, halfback Elijah Pitts, also looked good after leg surgery, dashing for one of the day's longest gains on a 15-yard swing pass from Bart Starr.

At Mankato, Minn., some 20 Minnesota Viking veterans made their first appearance at training camp—and immediately launched a negotiation session with General Manager Jim Finks. The vets haven't signed their 1968 contracts yet.

It was a different situation at Boston, where the Patriots announced the signing of six veterans, including standout defensive end Larry Eisenhauer and one of the original members of the AFL team, wide receiver Jim Colclough.

At Miami, Joe Auer, the Dolphins' 1966 player of the year who lost his halfback starting job to a rookie last season, signed for his fifth year in pro ball.

Several teams also did a little more trimming. Baltimore dismissed Gordon Jaffray, free agent from Evansville, Ind., College; the New Orleans Saints sent home six rookies, including their 14th-round draft hoice, Herb Covington of Memphis State, and the Denver Broncos cut linebacker Lou Andrus of Brigham Young and defensive back Tom Cassese of C. W. Post, a pair of second-year men.

Danny Talbott, former North Carolina quarterback who quit a pro baseball career to play pro football, has another career facing him. The Washington Redskins announced he has been called to military service after only a week in training camp.

Danny Villanueva, punter and placekicker for the Dallas Cowboys, announced his retirement after eight pro seasons to devote full time to his job as a sportscaster for a Spanish language radio station in Los Angeles.

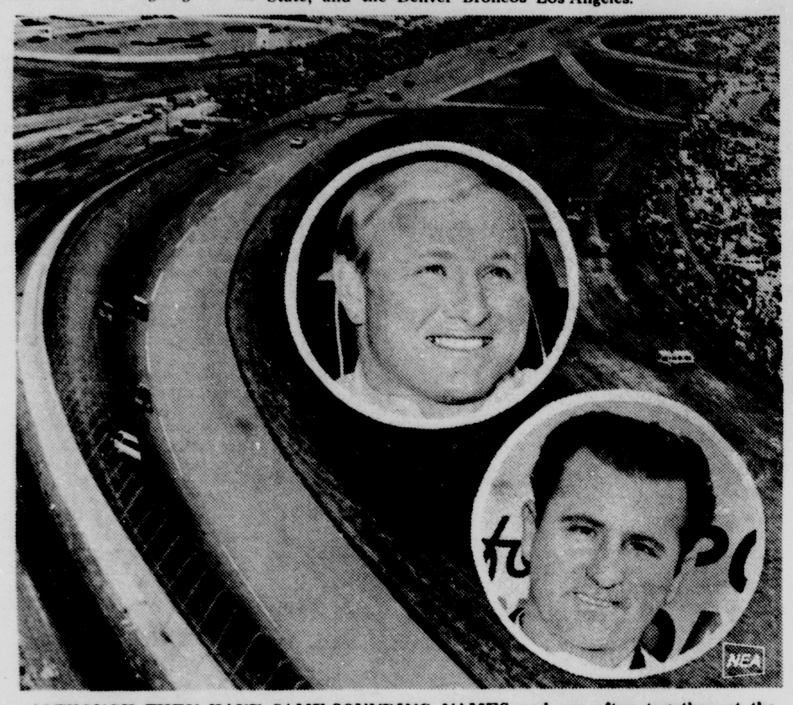
MASKED MARVEL? "Cantal" wasn't a mystery entry in the Hamburg (Germany) Derby; he was just covered up this way to prevent a chill after he ran in race.



ALTHOUGH THEY HAVE SAME-SOUNDING NAMES and are often together at the finish lines on the NASCAR circuit, Cale Yarborough (top) isn't related to Lee Roy Yarbrough. After finishing one-two in the Daytona 500, both returned to the Florida resort town to compete in the Firecracker 400.

Matchick's Blast Shoves Tigers 7.5 Games In Front

By The Associated Press

Tom Matchick was the talk of Florida spring training in 1967, and they were saying plenty of good things about him later in the minor lagues, too, that year. But none of it was repeated in the major leagues—until Friday night.

Now, with one swing of the bat, the rookie shortstop has said it all over again, and the whole town of Detroit is buzzing.

More than 53,000 Detroit fans with pennant fever were on hand when Matchick spoke his piece, a two-out, full-count, two-run homer in the last of the ninth that lifted the American League-leading Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Baltimore.

The blast shoved the Tigers 7½ games ahead of rained-out Cleveland and 8½ in front of the Orioles, who had come to Detroit with hopes of closing in on the Tigers. However, Matchick's hit was a demoralizing start for Baltimore, which meets Detroit in six more games this weekend and next.

Cleveland was rained out of its game at New York against the Yankees while Washington doused Boston 7-3, Oakland silenced Minnesota 4-2 and California blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0.

Detroit had been held to only two hits for the first eight innings and trailed 4-2 as Frank Robinson hit his sixth homer with a man on Paul Blair hit a sacrifice fly and Don Buford a run-scoring six run-scoring single for Baltimore.

But Jim Northrup opened the ninth with a single, Al Kaline walked and two force outs produced a run and set the stage for Matchick.

Cap Peterson slammed a homer and a two-run double and Frank Howard and Mike Epstein sparked a three-run fourth inning with doubles as Washington won only for the second time in 12 games.

Dennis Higgins saved Bruce Howard's first victory, entering wth two on and none out in the seventh with the score 5-3 and blanking the Red Sox the rest of the way. Juan Pizarro, 2-1, took the loss.

Reggie Jackson was Oakland's big bat, cracking a three-run homer, his 16th, in the first inning off loser Jim Merritt, 5-11. John "Blue Moon" Odom went eight innings to raise his record to 8-6.

Roger Repoz slammed his first homer since May 14 and the two-run shot in the sixth inning was enough for George Brunet in California's triumph. Repoz' 10th homer came after Jim Fregosi reached base on an error.

Brunet, 10-9, outdueled Bob Priddy, 1-5.

Four damage suits totaling $1.6 million, filed by a Wichita, Kan., family because of a Missouri State Fair racing accident Aug. 28, 1965, in which four spectators were killed, has been settled.

The settlement, on file in Cole County Circuit Court, does not give the amount. It states that the litigation brought by the Frederick Brandt family of Wichita has been "fully compromised and settled."

Brandt sued for $1 million for his injuries, Mrs. Brandt asked $50,000 for the loss of her husband's services. The Brandts together requested $25,000 for the death of a son, Ricky, and $25,000 for loss of services of another son, Charles, who was injured. In a fourth suit, Charles asked $500,000 for his injuries.

Defendants were National Speedways, Inc.; National Speedways of Florida, Inc.; International Motor Contest Association; Jack D. Cecil, owner of the car; William C. Crane, the driver; Dexter Davis, commissioner of the state Department of Agriculture, and the state of Missouri.

The accident occurred when the car, with Crane driving, blew a tire during time trials at the fair in Sedalia, Mo., and flipped over a guard rail fence into a standing crowd. Fourteen spectators also were injured.

Almost 5 million persons have visited the 42 State Parks and Historic Shrines the first six months of this year. Mr. Joseph Jaeger, Jr., Director of State Parks said that through June 30th 4,899,605 visitors were recorded, an increase of 575,062 over the same period in 1967. Jaeger said that if we have normal weather for the remainder of the year the total attendance would exceed 13 million. Our past records show that nearly 60% of the annual visitor count is recorded in th last six months of the year.

The leading parks through June 30th were Table Rock State Park 284,024; Lake Ozqrks 162,420; Roaring River 143,663; Thousand Hills 113,552; and Meramec 100,944.

Overnight camping also continues to increase as in the past, but at a higher percentage than the total visitors. Through June 30th there were 337,767 registered overnight campers, for an increase of 59,637 over last year.

The Lake of the Ozarks State Park was the leading park for campers through June 30th with 27,907. Meramec was second with 22,902. Table Rock was third with 20,971; Roaring River was fourth with 20,674 and Bennett Spring was fifth with 18,600.

Two Swings Does It As Mets Stop Birds

By The Associated Press

Two months ago, Larry Jaster kept the New York Mets cooling their heels for 7 2-3 innings before they finally got one foot in the door.

Friday night the Mets looked up the St. Louis swifty again ... and crashed the gate with two quick swings.

Bud Harrelson tagged Jaster's first pitch for a double and Cleon Jones followed with a second-pitch homer, launching the Mets to a 4-2 victory over the National League-leading Cardinals.

It was New York's first crack at Jaster since May 31, when the tall southpaw beat the Mets 2-0 with a two-hitter, retiring 23 batters in order before yielding a two-out single in the eighth.

Despite their second setback in as many nights, the Cards remained nine games up on the second-place Atlanta Braves, who bowed to Pittsburgh 2-0. Houston topped San Francisco 3-1, Chicago downed Los Angeles 6-2 and Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 9-2 in other NL games.

Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4, California blanked Chicago 2-0, Oakland beat Minnesota 4-2 and Washington staggered Boston 73 in American League play. Cleveland and New York were rained out.

Rookie Bob Moose flipped a four-hitter as the Pirates throttled the Braves, who had won nine of their previous 11 starts. Willie Stargell gave Moose, 4-6, the only run he needed by slamming a fourth-inning homer, his 16th of the season.

Don Wilson and rookie Steve Shea stopped the Giants on four hits, with Shea pitching out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth. Lee Thomas knocked in Houston's first run with a second-inning double and the Astros scored twice in the seventh on doubles by Bob Aspromonte and Denis Menke, a ground out and Wilson's infield single.

The Cubs capitalized on three Los Angeles errors for three unearned runs and checked the Dodgers on the four-hit pitching of Ferguson who struck out 12 and bases-loaded threats in the seventh and eighth.

The Cubs' Glenn Beckert extended his hitting streak to 24 games with a bunt single in the fifth, matching the season-high streak established earlier by Pittsburgh's Maury Wills.

Vada Pinson's three-run homer and a two-run wallop by Tony Perez paced the Reds' assault against Philadelphia. Pinson connected following Rich Allen's second error of the game to key a four-run eighth-inning burst.

The argument drew widespread publicity in the Cleveland newspapers and Modell said the positions of both players finally "became untenable." He said he wasn't trying to "hang either one of them. It's just the circumstances."

The 31-year-old,Wooten is a nine-year veteran and Fichtne , 29, had been with the Browns for eight season.

Meanwhile, at Lake Forest, Ill., the St. Louis Cardinals took a different approach to solving racial problems blamed in part for their stuttering finish last season.

They formed a players committee to nip any threat of dissension in the bud.

Coach Charley Winner said the committee wasn't formed entirely because of racial friction, but added: "We are not here for political, social or religious battles and the only way to winning football is through group work. Color, religion and politics have no bearing and, if they do appear, all they do is cause hard feelings and hurt us in our objectives."

After prolonged negotiations, the New York Jets signed their top draft choice—fullback Lee White, who scored 34 touchdowns during three years at Weber State of Utah.

The Jets wouldn't disclose terms of the multi-year contract, but the 6-foot-4, 240-pound White reportedly had been seeking a minimum of $150,000 for three years.

In Green Bay, veteran fullback Jim Grabowski tested his knee during a 30-minute workout and said it "didn't bother me a bit." He injured it against Baltimore last season, reinjured it later against Chicago and underwent surgery in January.

Another casualty of that Baltimore game, halfback Elijah Pitts, also looked good after leg surgery, dashing for one of the day's longest gains on a 15-yard swing pass from Bart Starr.

At Mankato, Minn., some 20 Minnesota Viking veterans made their first appearance at training camp—and immediately launched a negotiation session with General Manager Jim Finks. The vets haven't signed their 1968 contracts yet.

It was a different situation at Boston, where the Patriots announced the signing of six veterans, including standout defensive end Larry Eisenhauer and one of the original members of the AFL team, wide receiver Jim Colclough.

At Miami, Joe Auer, the Dolphins' 1966 player of the year who lost his halfback starting job to a rookie last season, signed for his fifth year in pro ball.

Several teams also did a little more trimming. Baltimore dismissed Gordon Jaffray, free agent from Evansville, Ind., College; the New Orleans Saints sent home six rookies, including their 14th-round draft choice, Herb Covington of Memphis State, and the Denver Broncos cut linebacker Lou Andrus of Brigham Young and defensive back Tom Cassese of C. W. Post, a pair of second-year men.

Danny Talbott, former North Carolina quarterback who quit a pro baseball career to play pro football, has another career facing him. The Washington Redskins announced he has been called to military service after only a week in training camp.

Danny Villanueva, punter and placekicker for the Dallas Cowboys, announced his retirement after eight pro seasons to devote full time to his job as a sportscaster for a Spanish language radio station in Los Angeles.

Four damage suits totaling $1.6 million, filed by a Wichita, Kan., family because of a Missouri State Fair racing accident Aug. 28, 1965, in which four spectators were killed, has been settled.

The settlement, on file in Cole County Circuit Court, does not give the amount. It states that the litigation brought by the Frederick Brandt family of Wichita has been "fully compromised and settled."

Brandt sued for $1 million for his injuries, Mrs. Brandt asked $50,000 for the loss of her husband's services. The Brandts together requested $25,000 for the death of a son, Ricky, and $25,000 for loss of services of another son, Charles, who was injured. In a fourth suit, Charles asked $500,000 for his injuries.

Defendants were National Speedways, Inc.; National Speedways of Florida, Inc.; International Motor Contest Association; Jack D. Cecil, owner of the car; William C. Crane, the driver; Dexter Davis, commissioner of the state Department of Agriculture, and the state of Missouri.

The accident occurred when the car, with Crane driving, blew a tire during time trials at the fair in Sedalia, Mo., and flipped over a guard rail fence into a standing crowd. Fourteen spectators also were injured.

Almost 5 million persons have visited the 42 State Parks and Historic Shrines the first six months of this year. Mr. Joseph Jaeger, Jr., Director of State Parks said that through June 30th 4,899,605 visitors were recorded, an increase of 575,062 over the same period in 1967. Jaeger said that if we have normal weather for the remainder of the year the total attendance would exceed 13 million. Our past records show that nearly 60% of the annual visitor count is recorded in th last six months of the year.

The leading parks through June 30th were Table Rock State Park 284,024; Lake Ozqrks 162,420; Roaring River 143,663; Thousand Hills 113,552; and Meramec 100,944.

The Lake of the Ozarks State Park was the leading park for campers through June 30th with 27,907. Meramec was second with 22,902. Table Rock was third with 20,971; Roaring River was fourth with 20,674 and Bennett Spring was fifth with 18,600.

Matchick's Blast Shoves Tigers 7.5 Games In Front

By The Associated Press

Tom Matchick was the talk of Florida spring training in 1967, and they were saying plenty of good things about him later in the minor lagues, too, that year. But none of it was repeated in the major leagues—until Friday night.

Now, with one swing of the bat, the rookie shortstop has said it all over again, and the whole town of Detroit is buzzing.

More than 53,000 Detroit fans with pennant fever were on hand when Matchick spoke his piece, a two-out, full-count, two-run homer in the last of the ninth that lifted the American League-leading Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Baltimore.

The blast shoved the Tigers 7½ games ahead of rained-out Cleveland and 8½ in front of the Orioles, who had come to Detroit with hopes of closing in on the Tigers. However, Matchick's hit was a demoralizing start for Baltimore, which meets Detroit in six more games this weekend and next.

Cleveland was rained out of its game at New York against the Yankees while Washington doused Boston 7-3, Oakland silenced Minnesota 4-2 and California blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0.

Detroit had been held to only two hits for the first eight innings and trailed 4-2 as Frank Robinson hit his sixth homer with a man on Paul Blair hit a sacrifice fly and Don Buford a run-scoring six run-scoring single for Baltimore.

But Jim Northrup opened the ninth with a single, Al Kaline walked and two force outs produced a run and set the stage for Matchick.

Cap Peterson slammed a homer and a two-run double and Frank Howard and Mike Epstein sparked a three-run fourth inning with doubles as Washington won only for the second time in 12 games.

Dennis Higgins saved Bruce Howard's first victory, entering wth two on and none out in the seventh with the score 5-3 and blanking the Red Sox the rest of the way. Juan Pizarro, 2-1, took the loss.

Reggie Jackson was Oakland's big bat, cracking a three-run homer, his 16th, in the first inning off loser Jim Merritt, 5-11. John "Blue Moon" Odom went eight innings to raise his record to 8-6.

Roger Repoz slammed his first homer since May 14 and the two-run shot in the sixth inning was enough for George Brunet in California's triumph. Repoz' 10th homer came after Jim Fregosi reached base on an error.

Brunet, 10-9, outdueled Bob Priddy, 1-5.

MASKED MARVEL? "Cantal" wasn't a mystery entry in the Hamburg (Germany) Derby; he was just covered up this way to prevent a chill after he ran in race.

Two Swings Does It As Mets Stop Birds

By The Associated Press

Two months ago, Larry Jaster kept the New York Mets cooling their heels for 7 2-3 innings before they finally got one foot in the door.

Friday night the Mets looked up the St. Louis swifty again ... and crashed the gate with two quick swings.

Bud Harrelson tagged Jaster's first pitch for a double and Cleon Jones followed with a second-pitch homer, launching the Mets to a 4-2 victory over the National League-leading Cardinals.

It was New York's first crack at Jaster since May 31, when the tall southpaw beat the Mets 2-0 with a two-hitter, retiring 23 batters in order before yielding a two-out single in the eighth.

Despite their second setback in as many nights, the Cards remained nine games up on the second-place Atlanta Braves, who bowed to Pittsburgh 2-0. Houston topped San Francisco 3-1, Chicago downed Los Angeles 6-2 and Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 9-2 in other NL games.

Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4, California blanked Chicago 2-0, Oakland beat Minnesota 4-2 and Washington staggered Boston 7-3 in American League play. Cleveland and New York were rained out.

Rookie Bob Moose flipped a four-hitter as the Pirates throttled the Braves, who had won nine of their previous 11 starts. Willie Stargell gave Moose, 4-6, the only run he needed by slamming a fourth-inning homer, his 16th of the season.

Don Wilson and rookie Steve Shea stopped the Giants on four hits, with Shea pitching out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth. Lee Thomas knocked in Houston's first run with a second-inning double and the Astros scored twice in the seventh on doubles by Bob Aspromonte and Denis Menke, a ground out and Wilson's infield single.

The Cubs capitalized on three Los Angeles errors for three unearned runs and checked the Dodgers on the four-hit pitching of Ferguson Jenkins, who struck out 12 and checked bases-loaded threats in the seventh and eighth.

The Cubs' Glenn Beckert extended his hitting streak to 24 games with a bunt single in the fifth, matching the season-high streak established earlier by Pittsburgh's Maury Wills.

Vada Pinson's three-run homer and a two-run wallop by Tony Perez paced the Reds' assault against Philadelphia. Pinson connected following Rich Allen's second error of the game to key a four-run eighth-inning burst.

Our involvment in Viet Nam has been an unfortunate one, from its inception in 1954 under the leadership of General Eisenhower. Not only have we sacrificed the lives of 25,000 of our nation's finest young men, we are spending at the rate of 2½ billion dollars a month to finance the war. This is the chief root cause of the inflationary spiral, the balance of payments deficit and the 10% income tax surcharge. We must have a prompt and honorable conclusion to the war. Eligible Voters in 1968 and Per Cent Casting Votes for President in 1964

About 118 million civilians of voting age will be residing in the U.S. on Nov. 1, according to estimates by the Bureau of the Census. This represents an increase of about 6 million persons (5%) since the last presidential election. About 63% of the civilian resident population of voting age voted in 1964. About 11.5 million civilians will be old enough to vote for president for the first time this November.

One of the dividends in participating in New York's International Photography Fair earlier this year was the pleasure of meeting Reginald Wickham of Teaneck, N.J. We became acquainted as neighbors, hanging up our photo exhibitions in the same display area.

Even before mine was finished, I felt impelled to take a closer look at the eye-catching, dramatic, poster-like group of pictures that he had assembled. Our acquaintance led to many meetings since then that have been informative and inspirational.

Wickham's pictures are all stark, black-and-white renditions of his original photographs transformed by imaginative darkroom work. Some of them are rustic woodland scenes of trees, barns and fences; others are "people pictures" from dramatic portraits to candid action shots of nightclub musicians; still others are slices of life recorded near home, his job or on family trips.

The common ingredient or end result in all his pictures is extreme contrast: stark white against rich black by the elimination of all intermediate grays. It is an effective, attention-getting technique which lifts normal or routine photography into a creative, offbeat achievement.

Reginald Wickham, 37, has an infectious friendly disposition, a warm smile and a soft voice that reveals the spiritual nature of his Negro heritage. He always had an interest in photography as a youngster and his self-teaching efforts were rewarded when he enlisted in the Air Force after finishing high school. He did so well on the aptitude test that he was assigned as an Air Force photographer without the necessity of attending the special training school.

On return to civilian life, he enrolled in the School of Modern Photography, concentrating on color lab work. He got a job in a custom color lab making dye transfer prints, then switched to the lithography field where he became a color separation specialist. He has been a member of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America for the past 10 years.

ARTISTIC EFFECT, like a pen-and-ink drawing, can be achieved from normal negatives by darkroom manipulations. To produce this unique barn picture, Reginald Wickham sandwiched three high contrast films together — a negative, a positive and a special blacks-only version.

Backed by technical skill in his work, he began to explore with his photography. He joined the Teaneck Camera Club in 1965 and won numerous awards because his photo renditions were different in technique and so dramatic in content.

"I didn't invent the technique," he stressed. "I studied a Kodak pamphlet on how to make black-and-white pictures from continuous tone (normal) photographs and began to experiment.

"Essentially, we wind up with a dramatic, extreme-contrast picture. You could start out with an extreme-contrast film in your camera like Kodalith film — a special film not generally available. It automatically reduces the range of tones on your negative to a near minimum. Or you could print your pictures on extreme contrast paper, like Kodalith paper, to limit the image to near black-and-white.

"The subject matter could also be of an extreme contrast nature, like a silhouette shot. Indoors, there are any number of examples when a light outlines a face or figure and leaves everything else in darkness. Theatrical spotlight lighting is excellent for this effect.

"Finally, there is darkroom manipulation of normal negatives. The idea is to transfer the image — by contact printing or enlarging — onto another high-contrast film like Kodalith. This may be done several times, going from a negative to a positive and back to a negative image. Each step eliminates some of the gray tones and produces more extreme black and white."

"I love people," Wickham says, "and I see pictures everywhere." It's a combination that he expresses through photography fully, creatively and artistically. He is a good example of what photography can achieve in small communities, an example of its strength and character as a constructive national hobby.

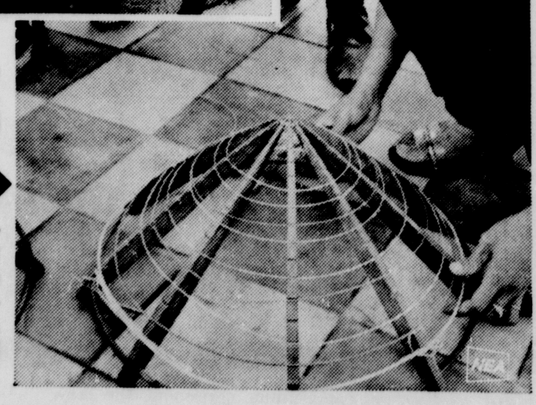
A Vietnamese woman engaged in the ancient art of hat-making from palm fronds. Through self-help, refugees regain their self respect and hope for the future.



Under contract to the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), the Community Development Foundation (CDF) trains Vietnamese civilians to be mobile refugee-welfare workers. Instructed and graduated in 10-man teams, the trained cadre members have been showing some of the more than 2.5 million Vietnamese refugees how self-help projects can quickly and dramatically improve their social and economic plight. The cadre members' training equips them to assist and motivate refugees to help themselves solve problems and achieve goals in areas including public health, housing construction, education, inexpensively capitalized industries and vocational training. Tennis Courts a New Look

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Streamlined styles are the order of the court this summer. Some tennis buffs may regret the passing of "Gorgeous Gussy" frills, but top tennis fashion designer, Teddy Tinling, believes these are not compatible with the sleek sophistication of the space age.

A sensational wrapover minijacket replaces the traditional tennis dress in his new collection. Evidence of the dress remains only in the longer torso which is attached to a swirling miniskirt or culotte. Another new number is the tennis tunic.

Tinling has discarded the traditional scoop neckline, too. In its place are the polo neck or the low V.

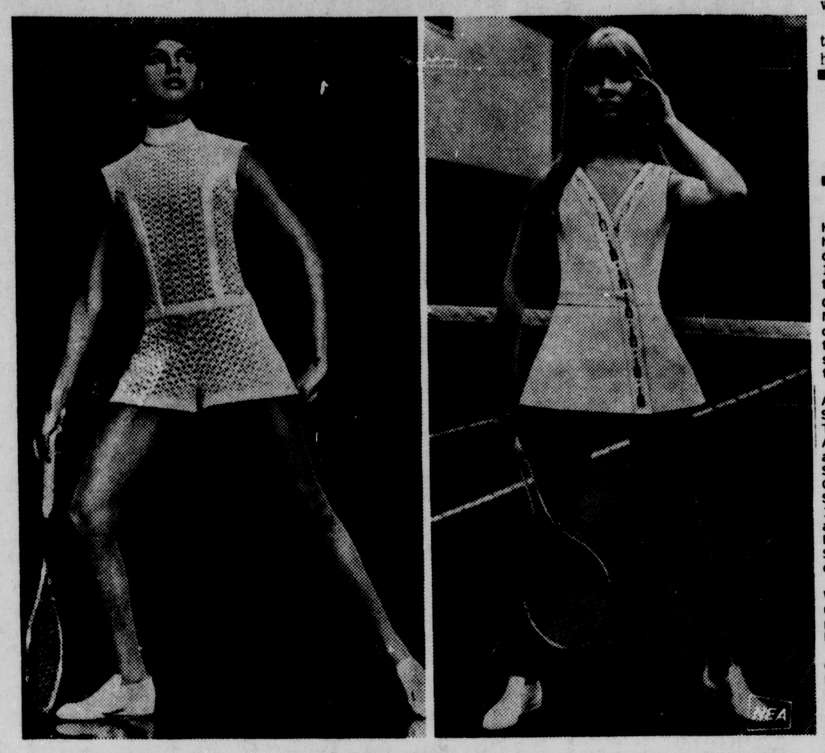
Where flower trims still appear, they are made in Reemay, a spunbonded polyester material which does not fray and is exceptional for its shape retention and easy-care qualities.

Fabrics chosen by Tinling are this time, as always, a highlight of the collection. Dacron from Britain steals into the act—some styles are in 100 per cent Dacron, others a blend with cotton.

There is a rich variety of jersey, herringbone twill shirting, silver spot organza, cavalry twill, linen-types and sailcloth.

He has also made computer copies of some of the outstanding designs in the collection totally in Reemay to make the new semidisposable element a practical cost-conscious possibility for the player who prefers a rapid change of style. (Although Reemay isn't paper, it is not a woven fabric and is in the disposable fabric category.)

Rivaling traditional white is a new outer-space blue and silver combination which adds a dramatic highlight to this superb collection of tennis fashions for '68.



A FAMOUS INTERNATIONAL DESIGNER of tennis fashions creates the abbreviated jumpsuit (left) in a white and blue fabric of Orlon bonded to nylon. Wrap-over minijacket for tennis (right) is a new and sophisticated look. It is made in a fabric of Dacron and cotton and embroidered with bright blue squared-off tennis rackets. These designs are from a collection by Teddy Tinling.

BURMA'S PAST, which began before many of today's great nations existed, was one of beauty and wonder including the "Golden City" of Mandalay. Today, 20 years after obtaining independence from the British, Burma is still flailing awkwardly in a sea of economic problems.

OXCARTS, left, move through Mandalay en route to threshing mills. Once Asia's biggest rice exporter, Burma instituted rationing last year. There are no traffic jams on Mandalay's streets.

WATER TAXIS deliver passengers in Rangoon, where boatmen get lots of trade because it sometimes takes five weeks to purchase a tire for a bicycle, a chief means of transportation.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A man has finally replaced a machine. The ticket machine at the entrance of Herndon Airport here has been replaced by attendants who now hand out the tickets.

The machine was transferred to another Airport to handle heavier traffic there.

Cash Not Enough, Baby Sitters Require Handout of Food, Too

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who complained about a sitter who helped herself to a third of a pie and ate large holes in the company ham. I agree a sitter has no right to do this but there are two sides to every story. May I speak for the thousands of baby sitters who get so hungry they almost pass out?

I have sat in homes where a cockroach could starve to death. I realize the people I sit for don't owe me a banquet, Ann, but a growing girl who runs after kids for five or six hours needs something to keep her strength up.

A bag of potato chips and a soft drink is not going to bankrupt anybody. If Mrs. Housewife would set something aside for the sitter she wouldn't have to worry about being eaten out of house and home. -- MISS REASONABLE

Dear Miss: Thank you for your suggestion on how Mrs. Housewife can best protect her company ham and guest pie against the famished sitter. I agree a sitter is entitled to a little refreshment, and a thoughtful lady will provide it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was impressed with the answer you gave "Ceiling Zero." I only hope the dumb bunny listens to you. If the kept women in this country knew what their married sweethearts really thought of them there would be a lot less back street action.

Three years ago I suspected my husband had a friend on the side. He denied it for two years and then I ran into him -- checking into a motel one Saturday afternoon. She was outside in the car. I had dropped in to get some ice cream. When they saw me they'd have liked to die. My husband handed her money to take a taxi and then followed me home in his car. We had a frank talk and I told him he could have a divorce if he wanted it.

Did he accept my offer? He did not. He said she was nothing but a plaything and he would never marry her -- that she wasn't fit to shine my shoes much less fill them. We both had a good cry and he begged me to forgive him and let him prove what a good husband he could be. I agreed to try it.

The following morning the woman called and asked me to forgive her. She said my husband had told her I was an invalid and she was shocked to see me walk into that place.

So you see, Ann. liars play it both ways. Please publish this. It could be a post- graduate course in life for your readers. -- HOLDER OF THE DIPLOMA

Dear Holder: Are you listening, students?

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me, Ann. My folks are too old and too square to know anything about love. Besides, all they do is fight. I am 15 but could pass for 19. I can buy beer in any tavern without showing an ID card. My problem is I have fallen in love with a very handsome guy who is an actor. Neil is 23 and I'm sure he'll be a big star some day. He wants me to marry him but we have no money and he isn't working at present. I could go to work and tide us over until Neil gets a good part. Don't tell me I'm a foolish kid because love is for the young and this is the real thing. Give me some encouragement. --JONQUIL

Dear Jonquil: How lucky can a girl get? You're only 15 and you can buy beer any place and now you've found an out-of-work actor who wants to marry you! Two months of boardinghouse beans will shake the rocks out of your head, Kiddo. Tell the guy "Good-bye and good luck."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The J. W. Black residence on the corner of North Kingshighway and Tanner streets, which has been under construction for several months, has recently been completed and the family began moving into it Tuesday. Until then it will be occupied by F. H. Farnsworth and family.

The Scott County draft board yesterday received from Adjutant General McCord of Missouri a telegram stating the August call for men for the army may equal that of the July call. If that limit is reached, it will mean that 266 men from Scott County must go to the colors during August, as that will be the number contributed to the army after today's contingent of 160 leaves Benton, 66 having previously gone this month.

J. H. Hayden, janitor at the Sikeston High School building, has three or four acres of the high school grounds rented and is growing a fine war garden thereon. He turned $20 over to the school board Wednesday, which amount was due the district from the sale of some potatoes which he grew on the school grounds.

Cash Not Enough, Baby Sitters Require Handout of Food, Too

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who complained about a sitter who helped herself to a third of a pie and ate large holes in the company ham. I agree a sitter has no right to do this but there are two sides to every story. May I speak for the thousands of baby sitters who get so hungry they almost pass out?

I have sat in homes where a cockroach could starve to death. I realize the people I sit for don't owe me a banquet, Ann, but a growing girl who runs after kids for five or six hours needs something to keep her strength up.

A bag of potato chips and a soft drink is not going to bankrupt anybody. If Mrs. Housewife would set something aside for the sitter she wouldn't have to worry about being eaten out of house and home. -- MISS REASONABLE

Dear Miss: Thank you for your suggestion on how Mrs. Housewife can best protect her company ham and guest pie against the famished sitter. I agree a sitter is entitled to a little refreshment, and a thoughtful lady will provide it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was impressed with the answer you gave "Ceiling Zero." I only hope the dumb bunny listens to you. If the kept women in this country knew what their married sweethearts really thought of them there would be a lot less back street action.

Three years ago I suspected my husband had a friend on the side. He denied it for two years and then I ran into him -- checking into a motel one Saturday afternoon. She was outside in the car. I had dropped in to get some ice cream. When they saw me they'd have liked to die. My husband handed her money to take a taxi and then followed me home in his car. We had a frank talk and I told him he could have a divorce if he wanted it.

Did he accept my offer? He did not. He said she was nothing but a plaything and he would never marry her -- that she wasn't fit to shine my shoes much less fill them. We both had a good cry and he begged me to forgive him and let him prove what a good husband he could be. I agreed to try it.

The following morning the woman called and asked me to forgive her. She said my husband had told her I was an invalid and she was shocked to see me walk into that place.

So you see, Ann, liars play it both ways. Please publish this. It could be a post- graduate course in life for your readers. -- HOLDER OF THE DIPLOMA

Dear Holder: Are you listening, students?

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me, Ann. My folks are too old and too square to know anything about love. Besides, all they do is fight. I am 15 but could pass for 19. I can buy beer in any tavern without showing an ID card. My problem is I have fallen in love with a very handsome guy who is an actor. Neil is 23 and I'm sure he'll be a big star some day. He wants me to marry him but we have no money and he isn't working at present. I could go to work and tide us over until Neil gets a good part. Don't tell me I'm a foolish kid because love is for the young and this is the real thing. Give me some encouragement. --JONQUIL

Dear Jonquil: How lucky can a girl get? You're only 15 and you can buy beer any place and now you've found an out-of-work actor who wants to marry you! Two months of boardinghouse beans will shake the rocks out of your head, Kiddo. Tell the guy "Good-bye and good luck."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the U.S. flag was raised over Berlin as American troops prepared to take part in an occupation government. President Harry S. Truman said at the flag-raising ceremony: "There is not a piece of territory or one thing of a monetary nature we want out of this war."

On this date:

In 1861, Colombia declared its independence from Spain.

In 1861, the Congress of the Confederate States started holding sessions in Richmond, Va., the new capital of the Confederacy.

In 1930, Pope Leo XII died at the age of 93.

In 1923, the Mexican bandit and revolutionary leader, Pancho Villa, was assassinated at Parral, Mexico.

In 1917, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker drew the first draft number—258—in America's World War I conscription lottery.

In 1944, in World War I, it was disclosed that Adolf Hitler had narrowly escaped death when a bomb exploded in his headquarters. The bombing was a plot by high military and civil officials.

Ten years ago: The government of Indonesia's President Sukarno was fighting rebel forces in northern Celebes.

HEADQUARTERS for Edward L. Dowd, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, is given the eye by Miss Julie Crader, hostess and secretary. The quarters are at 111 South New Madrid St.

Horse Show Serves Two-Fold Purpose

Spectators attending the Semo Shrine sponsored horse show, Saturday night at 8 p.m., will be rewarded by a two - fold purpose, an extravaganza in horse performance as well as aiding almost 4,000 children in receiving surgical and medical care, at the St. Louis Shriners hospital.

The hospital, providing free care for children whose parents cannot afford private care,

A total of 3944 children received care in 1967, J. E. Williams Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the hospital said, with 867 patients admitted during the year. The hospital provided free 642 braces and several thousand shoes and shoe corrections.

There is a waiting list of 159 for the 100 - bed hospital, Williams said.

Patients come from Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Indiana.

The Sikeston organization is one of nine cities in Missouri, which contribute to support of the hospital, and has remained a part of the Moolah Shrine Temple, with the 18-palomino horse mounted patrol.

These animals are owned by members of the Sikeston organization, and perform in many district parades, to keep the identity with the state Shriner organization.

Horse shows are something special, in that many hours of training are given by the riders so that their horses can perform with split - second timing, in whatever class a horse is entered.

In contrast to the riders, who are meticulously attired in a riding habit rigidly prescribed for the type of riding class in which they are entered, the spectator can be at ease in sundresses, shorts and slacks.

Once a spectator shares the performer's dejection or joy he will have joined the ranks of true horse show addicts.

Even in Michigan, the citadel of the automobile, interest in horses and horse shows is growing.

Michigan Horse Show Association lists 38 horse shows in 1968 compared with only 16 in 1957.

400-Car Parking Lot Going Up at College

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 400-car parking lot is being constructed on college property as one of several major steps by Southeast Missouri State College to solve traffic problems when classes begin in September.

The parking lot is being built on the College Farm just north of the main campus. In addition, a lot for parking 250 vehicles will be built adjacent to the Towers dormitories, where two 12-story units are now being completed.

Carroll Walker, dean of students, said that the college this year would rigidly enforce its traffic code.

Use of city streets near the campus for parking will be severely curtailed in the new school year, Dean Walker said. Students residing within six blocks of the campus will be required to walk to classes and students who live farther away will be required to park on college lots.

Approximately 1800 cars are expected on campus this fall and the college will provide about 1200 spaces for them.

Vehicles will be classified in six different ways, officials said. These principally will be determined by credit hours and grade average. Some students will be allowed to park on campus and others will not.

Those who live in dormitories will be allowed to park in the residence hall's parking lot if they meet minimum requirements of 60 hours and a C grade average. Commuting students may bring cars to campus.

Students will be required to register cars and those who do not will be suspended for the semester, Dean Walker said. Two full- time college police officers will be employed to issue tickets to violators in the six - block area around the college.

WE'RE NOT ALONE

CHICAGO (AP) Taxes are hitting Canadians as hard as they are Americans.

Commerce Clearing House, a tax law authority, said in eight of Canada's 10 provinces tax increases across the Dominion involved income, sales, gasoline and diesel fuel, tobacco, liquor and motor vehicles.

Quebec assessed a 6 per cent surtax on the income tax of individuals, and Newfoundland upped its corporation income tax rate again, the third time in two years.

Seven provinces raised their gasoline tax rates from 1 to 3 cents per gallon, except in Newfoundland where a 5-cent-a-gallon boost gives that province the distinction of levying the highest rate in Canada or the United States -- 25 cents per gallon.

Bones in Chicken Cafe Owner's Fault

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Rolly-polly Solly loved to eat and was a self-styled expert on food and, while the nicest thing he could say about spinich was that it had no bones, he couldn't say the same thing for a chicken sandwich he ate in Benny's Beanery.

As he chomped away at the sandwich, a bone caught in his throat causing dire consequences. The result? He picked a bone with Benny in court where he sued him for damages.

"I don't know what he's got against me?" Benny queried in court. "It's not my fault that chickens have chicken bones."

"Maybe not when they're pecking around," was Solly's answer, "but, when they're inside an all white meant chicken sandwich, they should be boneless and the sandwich should be harmless. Since it wasn't, I'm entitled to collect for my injuries."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Solly to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that a restauranteur must exercise care to remove such harmful bones as a customer would not ordinarily anticipate or guard against in food served him. Ordinarily, concluded the judge, there are no bones in the white meat of a chicken.

United States troops in Vietnam have been stricken with new strains of malaria resistant to synthetic quinine. Thus, quinine is as essential nowadays as it was in World War I and the early stages of World War II.

Horse Show Serves Two-Fold Purpose

Spectators attending the Semo Shrine sponsored horse show, Saturday night at 8 p.m., will be rewarded by a two - fold purpose, an extravaganza in horse performance as well as aiding almost 4,000 children in receiving surgical and medical care, at the St. Louis Shriners hospital.

The hospital, providing free care for children whose parents cannot afford private care,

A total of 3944 children received care in 1967, J. E. Williams Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the hospital said, with 867 patients admitted during the year. The hospital provided free 642 braces and several thousand shoes and shoe corrections.

There is a waiting list of 159 for the 100 - bed hospital, Williams said.

Patients come from Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Indiana.

The Sikeston organization is one of nine cities in Missouri, which contribute to support of the hospital, and has remained a part of the Moolah Shrine Temple, with the 18-palomino horse mounted patrol.

These animals are owned by members of the Sikeston organization, and perform in many district parades, to keep the identity with the state Shriner organization.

Horse shows are something special, in that many hours of training are given by the riders so that their horses can perform with split - second timing, in whatever class a horse is entered.

In contrast to the riders, who are meticulously attired in a riding habit rigidly prescribed for the type of riding class in which they are entered, the spectator can be at ease in sundresses, shorts and slacks.

Once a spectator shares the performer's dejection or joy he will have joined the ranks of true horse show addicts.

Even in Michigan, the citadel of the automobile, interest in horses and horse shows is growing.

Michigan Horse Show Association lists 38 horse shows in 1968 compared with only 16 in 1957.

400-Car Parking Lot Going Up at College

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 400-car parking lot is being constructed on college property as one of several major steps by Southeast Missouri State College to solve traffic problems when classes begin in September.

The parking lot is being built on the College Farm just north of the main campus. In addition, a lot for parking 250 vehicles will be built adjacent to the Towers dormitories, where two 12-story units are now being completed.

Carroll Walker, dean of students, said that the college this year would rigidly enforce its traffic code.

Use of city streets near the campus for parking will be severely curtailed in the new school year, Dean Walker said. Students residing within six blocks of the campus will be required to walk to classes and students who live farther away will be required to park on college lots.

Approximately 1800 cars are expected on campus this fall and the college will provide about 1200 spaces for them.

Vehicles will be classified in six different ways, officials said. These principally will be determined by credit hours and grade average. Some students will be allowed to park on campus and others will not.

Those who live in dormitories will be allowed to park in the residence hall's parking lot if they meet minimum requirements of 60 hours and a C grade average. Commuting students may bring cars to campus.

Students will be required to register cars and those who do not will be suspended for the semester, Dean Walker said. Two full- time college police officers will be employed to issue tickets to violators in the six - block area around the college.

WE'RE NOT ALONE

CHICAGO (AP) Taxes are hitting Canadians as hard as they are Americans.

Commerce Clearing House, a tax law authority, said in eight of Canada's 10 provinces tax increases across the Dominion involved income, sales, gasoline and diesel fuel, tobacco, liquor and motor vehicles.

Quebec assessed a 6 per cent surtax on the income tax of individuals, and Newfoundland upped its corporation income tax rate again, the third time in two years.

Seven provinces raised their gasoline tax rates from 1 to 3 cents per gallon, except in Newfoundland where a 5-cent-a-gallon boost gives that province the distinction of levying the highest rate in Canada or the United States -- 25 cents per gallon.

Bones in Chicken Cafe Owner's Fault

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Rolly-polly Solly loved to eat and was a self-styled expert on food and, while the nicest thing he could say about spinich was that it had no bones, he couldn't say the same thing for a chicken sandwich he ate in Benny's Beanery.

As he chomped away at the sandwich, a bone caught in his throat causing dire consequences. The result? He picked a bone with Benny in court where he sued him for damages.

"I don't know what he's got against me?" Benny queried in court. "It's not my fault that chickens have chicken bones."

"Maybe not when they're pecking around," was Solly's answer, "but, when they're inside an all white meant chicken sandwich, they should be boneless and the sandwich should be harmless. Since it wasn't, I'm entitled to collect for my injuries."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Solly to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that a restauranteur must exercise care to remove such harmful bones as a customer would not ordinarily anticipate or guard against in food served him. Ordinarily, concluded the judge, there are no bones in the white meat of a chicken.
